BAG SNATCHER BIKER WARNING

A 'COWARDLY' motorcyclist is riding up to pensioners and stealing their handbags before speeding off.

Police this week warned women to be on their guard and urged people connected to the thief to 'forget any loyalties' and give his name to officers.

The brazen thief has struck five times across the Black Country and failed in another attempt.

By Adam Grinsell

The first theft happened at around 9am on September 4, when a woman aged in her 60s was putting her shopping into the boot of her car at Sainsbury's in Sandringham Way, Brierley Hill.

Grabbed

The biker went up to the woman, grabbed her handbag from the trolley and rode off.

Half an hour later a woman in her 70s was waiting at a bus stop on Church Avenue, Amblecote, when she was approached by the motorcyclist, who snatched her handbag from her shoulder.

Just 10 minutes after that another woman, also in her 70s, was waiting at a different bus stop on Church Avenue when she saw a man on a black motorcycle wearing a white helmet pas by. A second biker wearing a black helmet then rode past to join the first rider, before turning back up the road and grabbing the woman's handbag.

Then on September 9, just before noon, again at Sainsbury's on Sandringham Way, a man on an orange scrambler bike grabbed a woman's handbag in the car park and rode off.

Shortly afterwards, on Granville Road, Kingswinford, a woman in her 40s was approached by the biker, who unsuccessfully tried to snatch her handbag.

Ten minutes later, on the same road, the motorcyclist went up to a woman in her 80s and grabbed her bag.

Chief Inspector Nick Rowe said: "These are cowardly crimes carried out against women who are often older in years and the person responsible needs to be brought to justice.

"We have been carrying out patrols in the area and we are looking at CCTV to try and establish the identity of the biker.

"Our initial inquiries lead us to believe there is one main offender, but perhaps two bikes are being used.

"In many of the reports, the bike used is described as having a registration beginning with FX08 or 07 and having distinctive chrome forks.

"I am asking the public to forget any loyalties and think about the vulnerable women who have been attacked.

"I'd urge people to give us a name so we can take this individual off the streets quickly."

Call police on 101 or Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.

Record turnout for Black Country race

A record number of runners cross the start line of the 10k Black Country Road Race held in Halesowen

HUNDREDS took to the streets of Halesowen in the increasingly-popular Black Country Road Run.

The third such run in in the town, which took place on Sunday and attracted a record number of participants to the 10-kilometre and a five-kilometre runs.

Young and old took part, with some choosing to don fancy dress.

Organiser and Rotarian Alan Bowler said: "We had 800 plus spread across the two runs, which is great. It was a fantastic day, everyone was saying they had a great run.

"It has grown year on year, we had around 460 in the first event and around 600 last year," Mr Bowler added.

Among the masses making their way around the town on the run was famous fundraiser 'Blind Dave' Heeley, from West Bromwich, who was raising money for national diabetes charity JDRF by taking part in the fun run. Also taking part was Halesowen and Rowley Regis MP James Morris.

Fundraising teams were also running, such as those from children's charity Barnardo's and Sunfield Children's Home in Clent, to raise much-needed funds.

The 'fun' five-kilometre run was entered by children and their families, and those looking for a slightly less taxing challenge, while the 10-kilometre version was reserved for the more serious runners.

Mr Bowler, who is hoping the event will have raised in excess of £20,000 for the various causes, added: "It's created a great platform to get runners in and raise mone.

"There's a whole community getting involved in this."

The date has already been set for next year's event, to take place on July 5.

Smaller minaret is planned at mosque

FRESH plans have been lodged for a mosque in Dudley as Muslim leaders reveal they have downscaled the size of the development with a shorter minaret

Dudley Muslim Association said instead of a standalone dome, the building will have a curved roof and the minaret will stand at 61ft instead of the original 109ft proposal.

It comes despite an on-going battle between the association and Dudley Council over land in Hall Street, earmarked for the development.

A hearing is due to take place at London's High Court next year.

Outline planning permission was approved for the scheme in 2008 following a planning inquiry. The association had until Saturday to submit a reserved matters planning application to the council.

The overall size of the development has been reduced and leaders say it will not be taller than nearby buildings.

Dudley Muslim Association said the changes had been made 'to address people's concerns over the scale and design of the development'.

Community leaders say they need a modern building to replace the existing mosque on Castle Hill.

£3m drive to recruit nurses

MORE than £3 million will be spent on recruiting extra nurses at Dudley's hospitals.

Bosses at the Dudley Group NHS Foundation Trust, which runs Russells Hall Hospital, also want to reduce the need for expensive agency staff.

In a report presented to Dudley Council's health scrutiny committee on Monday, Paula Clark, chief executive, said the trust will be taking their recruitment drive overseas, as well as taking on local nurses.

Trader is fined for selling dodgy cigs

THOUSANDS of fake and smuggled cigarettes were seized from a Brierley Hill shop by trading standards officers, a court heard.

A sniffer dog helped to uncover 6,820 cigarettes and 29 packs of rolling tobacco, worth more than £4,600 at Eazy Shop in High Street, Brierley Hill.

They did not display the appropriate warning markings and some of the items were counterfeit, Dudley Magistrates Court was told.

Hassan Kadir from the shop admitted a charge of possessing counterfeit tobacco on September 11 last year and was fined £150 and ordered to pay £1,461 costs.

The same shop was visited again by officers in December where they found a further 3,600 cigarettes and 39 packs of rolling tobacco. Safine Peorte Zada who was working at the shop on this occasion, received a conditional discharge at after admitting similar charges on August 21 this year, and was also ordered to pay £900 costs and a £15 victim surcharge.

In a separate matter, bosses at Lake Discount Stores, in Lake Street, Lower Gornal, have had their licence to sell alcohol revoked after an undercover check when staff sold alcohol to someone underage.

Fire station demolition

DEMOLITION plans for a Black Country fire station have been approved.

Developer Horgan Homes & Developments Ltd had submitted proposals to knock down Halesowen Fire Station. The firm has already been granted permission to build 14 homes on the site.

Now it will flatten the old station and training tower off Hagley Road. Money from the sale went towards a £3 million replacement station in Cradley Heath.

Mechanic died underneath his car

AN ENGINEER who was working on his car died when he accidentally pulled the vehicle on top of him.

An inquest heard that Stephen Millington, aged 53, from Halesowen, was working underneath his Alfa Romeo at premises in Quarry Bank where he worked part-time as a mechanic.

Mr Millington's friend Paul Bate, who shared the workshop with him, found him underneath the car on October 11, last year.

Mr Bate said: "He was working on the roll bar and it's very close to the sub frame so he had to take that off.

"There was a 3ft bar by him so what I think happened was he was using the bar to pull it and it fell on top of him."

Mr Bate said Mr Millington, of Hanley Close, would often rush his work as he juggled working as a mechanic with his full-time job as a hospital engineer.

He added: "The day before he had been there alone to work on his car and was going to his caravan for the night before picking up a car in Bewdley for an MOT. I got there about 9.15am and the gates were unlocked but I was expecting to see a Mondeo there, not his car. I could see his legs sticking out from under the car.

"I jacked it up straight away and then went to the motorbike shop next door to call an ambulance."

Senior coroner Robin Balmain said the medical cause of Mr Millington's death was asphyxia after being trapped under a car, and recorded a conclusion that his death was an accident.

Elderly 'trapped' after bus service removed

ELDERLY passengers say they feel 'trapped' after a bus service was removed as part of an overhaul of routes in Dudley and Sandwell.

More than 100 people packed into a small church hall to raise their concerns over the axing of the 297 service by National Express.

The service, which ran through Old Hill and Cradley Heath to Russells Hall Hospital, was ended earlier in the summer after a fall in passenger numbers and problems with reliability.

At the meeting in Old Hill's Our Lady of Lourdes Church, residents vented their frustration at company representative Jack Kelly.

Vulnerable

The 297 previously ran down Station Road and served those in the Lodgefield estate.

Marcia Harris, of Sherbourne Road, was there on behalf of elderly neighbours who can't make it to their nearest bus stop now. She said: "It's for the most vulnerable that we are fighting, they should be thinking about the needs of the community."

Others complained that there is now no direct bus route to the hospital and that they were not consulted properly before the route was discontinued. Some from Coppice Lane in Quarry Bank explained they now cannot get directly to Cradley Heath railway station.

National Express replaced the 297 with two separate services as it said the length of the 297 route was making it unreliable but since the service was removed more than 600 names have been gathered on a petition calling for its reinstatement.

Mr Kelly said he would take the concerns to bosses at National Express, adding: "I'm going to take my notes, speak to the guys, and try to get to the point where I can come back with good news."

Free texts in bid to save NHS time

MORE than 2,500 appointments are missed by patients at Dudley's hospitals every month.

A new text reminder service has been launched to help reduce the number of missed out-patient appointments and keep waiting times down for other patients.

Bosses at Dudley Group NHS Foundation Trust, which runs Russells Hall Hospital in Dudley, the Guest Outpatient Centre in Dudley and Corbett Outpatient Centre in Stourbridge said 2,300 hours of clinic time was lost due to patients not attending appointments in April, May and June.

It has been said the average cost of a missed appointment is £80. It is estimated that more than 2,500 sessions are missed every month.

The text reminders will contain the date and time of the appointment as well as location and name of the clinician the patient is due to see. The free service has been introduced in all outpatient clinics.

Paul Assinder, director of finance and information, said the equivalent of 1,000 working days is lost each year due to no-shows.

Resident Abdul Qadus with some of the rubbish left strewn in the street at Lye

THIS is the sight greeting people as they arrive in Lye – bags of rubbish and rotting waste strewn about close to shops, restaurants and homes.

Now residents are fighting back and want a clean up of the land after they claim the problem has escalated over the summer.

Piles of rubbish bags have been left in roads close to the High Street area near the popular restaurants which make the town famous in the Black Country for its balti dishes.

Many of the flytipped bags had split allowing rotting waste to spill out on the road way in Clinic Drive, near the planned site for a multi-million heath centre.

Resident Abdul Qadus, Chairman of Lye Community Centre, called for a clean up of the site by Dudley Council. "It is disgusting and a disgrace to see ," he said. "People should have more pride in the area."

Mr Qadus has reported the flytipping to Dudley Council and officers are now investigating.

Security to be stepped up after school fire

SECURITY will be stepped up at a derelict school in Blackheath in a bid to stop further arson attacks.

A blaze ripped through the former Holt Farm Primary School earlier this month and police have confirmed it was started intentionally.

The 105-year-old building has been empty since 2006 and residents say it has become a regular target for vandals.

Part of the roof was destroyed by fire which took more than two hours to extinguish. Flames and huge plumes of black smoke were visible for miles around.

Now Dudley Council have promised to increase security around the site to keep vandals out.

Councillor Rachel Harris, cabinet member responsible for legal and property, said: "The site belongs to the council and we are in talks with a number of developers over the future of the area, which have so far been very positive.

"In the meantime, we are assessing the extent of the damage caused by the fire and looking at ways to improve security to help prevent further incidents. We also ask people to be vigilant and report any problems to

Better access to water fun

A WATER sports centre has opened changing facilities for disabled sports people thanks to a donation.

Dudley Water Sports, based at Lodge Farm Reservoir, Highbridge Road, Netherton, had the two wet rooms built last month.

They were provided by Impey Showers, which helped the centre as it marked its 50th anniversary.

The club was completely renovated earlier this year to bring the centre up to modern standards and to improve access for disabled people.

Art goes on show

AN ART and photography exhibition is being staged at Halesowen, featuring work from people attending classes at the new Age UK Dudley centre in Brierley Hill. The display includes watercolour paintings, acrylics and glass engravings. The exhibition is free to view.

Officers threatened with a pair of shears

A DRUNK man threatened police officers with a pair of shears, a court heard.

Police arrived at High Street, Wall Heath, on January 31, after they had received reports of a disturbance in a pub, Wolverhampton Crown Court heard. They found 28-year-old John Rowley standing in the road with the shears raised above his head.

Mr Gary Cook, prosecuting, said a large group of people had gathered in the street at around 11.20pm.

He said: "When officers got out of the car and told Rowley to surrender he became truculent and started to use abusive and threatening language."

Rowley eventually threw the shears onto the ground but swore and spat at officers while being restrained

Miss Laura Culley, defending, said Rowley had taken the shears to defend himself after his cousin had been assaulted.

Rowley, of Grove Park, Wall Heath, admitted threatening a person with a bladed article. He was given eight months jail sentence suspended for 24 months with 12 months supervision, was placed on a three-month curfew and told to attend an alcohol intervention course.

Landmark for new flats

A MULTI-MILLION pound transformation of a deserted office block was put on view to the public for the first time this week.

Developer Seven Capital has started work converting the former Point North at the Waterfront, Brierley Hill, into 181 flats. The company says 30 percent of the apartments have already sold about 30 per cent of the apartments.

A launch party for interested buyers was held at the site, now called The Landmark, and open weekends will be held at the former HQ for insurers Egg.

Hotel is to open

A £9.5 million hotel and pub restaurant will open in Stourbridge on December 1, it has been announced.

Work is progressing on building the Premier Inn and Beefeater pub in Birmingham Street.

The 80-bedroom hotel will create 20 jobs.

Move for school and college to join forces

PLANS for a Stourbridge school and a sixth form college to join forces to form a multi-academy trust have been approved by the Department of Education.

The scheme will see King Edward VI College and Ridgewood High School work together and pool resources, enabling them to apply for additional funding.

A consultation with students, parents, governors and staff will take place before a final decision on whether to move ahead with the scheme is made.

Sharon Phillips, principal at King Edward VI College in Lower High Street, said the option was open for other schools in the area to join forces as part of one large academy trust.

"The plan is still in its early stages and everything is pending the result of the consultation," she said.

Ridgewood's bid to back the plan follows its own unsuccessful attempt for stand-alone academy status earlier this year.

Under the new proposals, the 780-pupil school on Park Road West would become an autonomous academy within the new arrangement, operating outside of local authority control.

Opportunity

Headteacher Clive Nutting said the move could have benefits for the school, which was rated as good in its latest Ofsted inspection in March.

"This is an exciting opportunity for our already successful school to work closely with a high achieving college. We don't have our own sixth form, so one potential advantage is the provision of better opportunities for our students to progress. I believe this proposal has more merit than our previous application."

Mr Nutting said a consultation regarding a move to academy status at the start of this year was met with mixed views. "It will be interesting to see what feedback we get this time around," he added. A six-week consultation is due to be launched this month.

Scheme to help young people move out of home

DUDLEY Council is drawing up a scheme to help young people struggling to buy or rent their own home.

Dudley Council is working on the scheme after revealing 4,115 young people are being forced to stay with their parents when they would prefer their own home, because of a shortage of suitable housing.

Housing bosses say one solution to the problem is to provide a shared housing scheme to bring groups of young people under one roof, giving them the chance to live independently.

By Andrew Turton

Hostel

The council is already working with Midland Heart on a £5.7million plan to redevelop the Gibbs Road House hostel, making way for new 58-bed supported accommodation scheme.

The scheme will open next year and provide a place to stay for people aged between 18 and 44.

There is also support for young people looking for housing from Churches Housing Association of Dudley and District and the Black Country Housing Group.

A supported lodging scheme for people aged between 16 and 24 is run by the Black Country YMCA.

In a report to councillors, Andrea Pope-Smith, director of adult community and housing services, said: "There are no easy answers to addressing the housing issues of young people as currently there is great demand for smaller social housing property types across a range of age groups.

"Some of this pressure can be attributed to welfare reform impacts."

"We are actively seeking opportunities to increase the provision of social housing in the borough by building more council homes."

Council bosses are already looking at ways to widen the type and size of houses built in the borough to bring more variety to the market, especially for first time buyers, those with bigger families and people wanting to downsize.

The authority is implementing a new housing strategy in a bid to tackle the problem by 2016 after it it has increased over recent years.

It comes as some families claim the controversial spare room subsidy scheme, known as the 'bedroom tax', has left them struggling.

More cash for outdoor gym

AN OUTDOOR gym will be created in Coseley after more cash was committed to the project by councillors.

Officials had already proposed building the fitness centre at Clayton Park using around £39,000 of funding, sourced from public heath funds and money paid by developers during building projects in the town. But councillors have committed another £17,000 was needed to bring the park's outdoor gym up to the same standards.

Time for a selfie — family fun as the Walk for Dreams event starts at Himley Hall

Walkers making dreams a reality

THEY came in fancy dress, fluorescent legwarmers, as superheroes and fairytale characters – and they had one goal in mind.

More than 1,000 people walked from Himley Hall tonWolverhampton Racecourse to raise up to £50,000 for charity on Sunday.

Wolves legends Steve Bull, Jody Craddock and Don Goodman were on hand to show their support for the hundreds taking part in the Walk for Dreams event.

Organised by Wolverhampton-based Promise Dreams, the event saw crowds including tributes to Superman, Snow White, nuns and the Jamaican bobsleigh team, trek the ten mile route via Molineux.

Promise Dreams was set up 12 years ago to help terminally-ill children and their families by granting a wish, with the £2.5 million raised so far going to help more than 2,400 families.

Co-founder and Wolverhampton businessman Suresh Bawasaid: "More than 1,000 people have registered and fundraised for the event. The day is a family day and is about having fun,we had lovely weather for it. Every pound that the walkers raise will go direct to help the children. "

THE BEST OF PETER RHODES

A DAILY Telegraph reader announced this week she had already posted her Christmas cards to friends in Scotland, just in case by December overseas postage rates might apply.

PUZZLED why the United States has kept well out of Russia's slow-motion invasion of Ukraine? A clue came this week when Nasa announced it had chosen two private spacecraft to fly its crews to the International Space Station. This is a reminder that, since the withdrawal of the Shuttles, the US has had to rely on Russian rockets to get into space. And if you're going anywhere important it's a golden rule that you must never fall out with the driver.

A REPORT reveals that thousands of customers tell lies to get car insurance. Some claim they have no convictions, others claim to be living at a false address. But if insurance customers are dodgy, what about insurance companies? I have just been to France, clutching a travel-insurance policy which included the fact that I had high blood pressure. But it also excluded any claims from customers undergoing medical tests or waiting for the results of tests. So tell me - how can anyone know they have high blood pressure without tests? Once diagnosed with high blood pressure you are, by definition, in for a lifetime of tests.

JOHN Bradshaw, an anthrozoologist, tells the Radio Times that cats are stressed by making them share houses with other cats and expecting too much of them. This will come as a puzzle to most cat owners who spend their time dashing from home to workplace, to supermarket to school run while the moggie spends 18 hours a day snoozing on the sofa. If this is stress, I want some.

ANTHROZOOLOGISTS? No, I can't find them in Yellow Pages either.

JOAO Magueijo is a Portuguese academic who has lived in Britain for more than 20 years and just written a book (sadly not yet translated from Portuguese) about those frightful Brits. He says we are a bunch of violent, sex-mad, lardarse alcoholics with revolting personal hygiene, riddled with self-destructive xenophobia and addicted to drinking "hot, dirty water," or tea, as we call it. So far, so good. Sadly, Magueijo spoils the effect by insisting his book is all tongue-in-cheek and he actually loves Britain and the Brits. Curious. For a moment there, he seemed to be rather close to the truth.

DO some NHS staff deliberately leak patients' private details to commercial companies? That is the obvious explanation for all those "coincidental" phone calls, reported by dozens of readers of this column, from compensation lawyers, stairlift firms and suchlike, which are received within days of receiving hospital treatment. Here's the latest. A reader tells me his wife had a fall a few days ago. After treatment at A&E, she attended the fracture clinic the following day. He reports: "After treatment we proceeded to the exit where her mobile went off. It was a text asking her if she had had an accident recently." He describes this as "a bit suspicious." I would go further. I would suggest someone at the hospital is on the take. The NHS says such conduct is a sacking offence but I'm not aware of anyone ever being sacked. Any similar examples?

AT Calais the port is surrounded by high steel fences. Two pathetic shredded strips of cloth hang from the razor wire, fluttering in the breeze and marking the place where some would-be migrant's dreams came to an end. At the coach park by the wine warehouse, half-hidden in the trees, groups of young Africans stalk like wolves, looking for any unguarded vehicle. The lottery of life is as unfair as ever.

Five apprentices join the E&S

THE Duke of York Prince Andrew was due to visit the Express & Star's Wolverhampton headquarters this week to give his backing to the Ladder for the Black Country campaign.

His Royal Highness is patron of the scheme encouraging businesses to take on apprenticeships to solve high levels of youth unemployment.

The campaign, launched in the Express & Star last week, is off to a flying start with 80 apprenticeships created on the first day alone. And many other firms are now in talks with the campaign after a public launch at the Black Country Chamber of Commerce's annual exhibition.

The Duke will meet with young people already taking their first steps on the job ladder.The Express & Star has joined forces with the Vine Trust, Performance Through People, and the Black Country Chamber of Commerce to help young people.

Visit – Prince Andrew

Firms' rush to help young is just the iob

By Rob Golledge

FIRMS are queuing up to back the Ladder for the Black Country scheme to create new apprenticeships after the campaign's public launch.

Scores of business leaders from across the region got their first taste of the scheme at the Black Country Chamber of Commerce's annual exhibition at a packed Wolverhampton Racecourse.

Backed by the Duke of York Prince Andrew, the Express & Star has teamed up with the Vine Trust, a charity that is already helping to get young people into work, to create new apprenticeships.

Training provider Performance Through People (PTP), the Black Country Chamber of Commerce, and Ikea Wednesbury are also leading partners. At the time of going to press there had been 107 apprenticeship enquiries and 18 company enquiries.

Response

The newspaper itself has taken on five new apprentice journalists. Editor Keith Harrison said: "The Express & Star is proud to head up the Ladder for the Black Country, to drive home the message that apprenticeships work."

Campaign partner Kevin Davis, chief executive of the Vine Trust, gave an introductory speech at the launch, urging businesses to work together and get on board. Eighty apprenticeships have already been pledged by Accord Group, Walsall Housing Group, Ikea, and the Express & Star.

Ladder for the Black Country partner Gill Durkin, business development director for Performance Through People, said: "There has been an excellent response and we have had interest from organisations who want to get involved in all sorts of ways.

"We have had plenty of businesses sign up – it has been a real success. Once we sit down and talk with some of the companies we will know how many overall the event has created. But the pledges we have already received is fantastic."

Margaret Corneby, chief executive of the Black Country Chamber of Commerce, said: "Apprenticeships have had their ups and downs, especially with employers, but I think there is an awful lot of good work and some very good success stories to inspire young people.

"The Ladder for the Black Country is not about all those companies that already have apprenticeships, it is about encouraging all those businesses that have never thought about them," she added. "There are a lot of companies out there who think it is too much paperwork or time to take on an apprentice.

"But what the Ladder for the Black Country has done has created a clearing centre – making it that much easier."

Ninder Johal, president of the Black Country Chamber of Commerce and member of the Local Enterprise Partnership, said the Black Country needed to close a skills gap.

The number of young people out of work in the Black Country is the highest in the country, with more than 8,000 18 to 24-year-olds in the dole queues each week.

Official figures show youth unemployment in the Black Country is more than double the national average, with Wolverhampton having the longest dole queues in England. Sandwell, Walsall and Dudley also all feature in the top 12 youth unemployment blackspots.

A website and call centre has been set up by PTP. Both young people and businesses can call the Ladder for Black Country hotline on 03332 409 699, or go to the website ladderfortheblackcountry.co.uk

Bus death man was looking other way

A GRANDFATHER who died after being hit by a bus stepped out in front of the moving vehicle while looking in the other direction

Michael Wilkinson walked out in front of the single-deck bus about a second before being struck at the junction of King Street and Flood Street in Dudley.

The 69-year-old, of Highfield Road, Kates Hill, suffered serious injuries and died the following day at Queen Elizabeth Hospital.

Pc Paul Robbins, a collision investigator, told the inquest in Smethwick that there were five cameras on the bus which recorded the accident near the entrance of the Churchill Shopping Centre on March 24.

He said the traffic light at the junction was showing green for the bus, which was moving at between 15 and 16mph. The speed limit on the road is 20mph.

The officer said Mr Wilkinson stepped out at a crossing at the junction. He added: "It shows him looking to his left, away from the bus. The last image of the man still shows him looking to his left. He was knocked off his feet and came to rest on the road."

Assistant coroner Zafar Siddique concluded he died as a result of the road traffic collision.

Rider thrown from machine

A MOTORCYCLIST was seriously injured after being thrown 20ft from his three-wheeled bike in a crash with a bin lorrry in Dudley.

David Clarke was rushed to Queen Elizabeth Hospital in Birmingham following the accident at the junction of Stourbridge Road and Wellington Road last week. He suffered a head injury and a suspected fractured pelvis.

Police closed Stourbridge Road for five hours after the crash for investigation and to recover the two vehicles.

The lorry driver was not injured.

More are opposing waste to energy bid

DOZENS more people have joined a campaign against a proposed waste into energy plant.

Opposition is building against the proposal for land off Moor Street in Brierley Hill after Clean Power resubmitted a planning application. The company changed its plans to include internal air-locks at three vehicle entrances to the planned building in a bid to ease residents' concerns over smells

An initial planning application was thrown out by Dudley Council amid fears over odours from the site. Now they will look at the new scheme.

About 80 people turned up to a meeting organised by Say No to the Waste Site at Hawbush Primary School last week. Rachel Harris, chairman of the group, said: "We were delighted with the turn-out at the meeting. We saw dozens of new faces who want to support what we are doing. "

The firm says it will process about 195,000 tons of waste a year, creating energy for up to 10,000 homes, and creating 34 jobs.

A spokesman said: "It is needed so that the area does not continue landfilling and burning waste."

Man facing porn charges

A MAN from Kingswinford has appeared in court facing 10 charges related to indecent images of children.

George Clarke, aged 59, of The Portway, Kingswinford, appeared at Dudley Magistrates' Court last week.

Clarke faces six charges of making indecent images of a child, one of distributing an indecent image of a child and three of possessing an indecent image of a child.

He also faces one charge of possessing extreme pornography.

The case was adjourned for Clarke to appear at Wolverhampton Crown Court next month.

Former Euro MP in court after police inquiry

Nikki Sinclaire leaves

A FORMER UKIP MEP has appeared before magistrates accused of a money laundering offence after a police inquiry into her travel expenses.

Nikki Sinclaire, who lost her seat in the European Parliament earlier this year, also faces a charge of committing misconduct in a public office.

Sinclaire spoke only to confirm her full name, address and date of birth during a three-minute hearing at Birmingham Magistrates' Court last week.

The 45-year-old, whose lawyer said she strongly denied the allegations, was not required to enter a formal plea to either of the charges.

Dressed in black trousers, a blue scarf and a dark jacket, Sinclaire, who lives in Shirley, Solihull, was granted unconditional bail to appear before a judge at Birmingham Crown Court on January 7.

Sinclaire was charged in July this year after a two-and-a-half-year inquiry by West Midlands Police and the European Anti-Fraud Office.

The money laundering charge against Sinclaire, brought under the Proceeds of Crime Act, alleges that she converted criminal property between October 2009 and December 2010.

Claims

Prosecutors further allege that Sinclaire committed misconduct between October 2009 and July 2010 'in that she made or caused to be made' false and dishonest claims for travelling expenses.

Sinclaire lost her seat as an MEP for the West Midlands in last May's European elections after leaving UKIP and standing for the We Demand a Referendum Now party.

During the hearing, her solicitor-advocate, Regan Peggs, said both "linked" charges would be denied.

The ex-MEP has previously described the allegations as "ludicrous" and unfounded.

In a statement in July, Sinclaire said she would be firmly defending herself against the charges.

£5m scheme to tackle tailbacks near hospital

A £5 million project aimed at easing congestion on a busy road near Dudley's main hospital has been announced.

Around 30,000 vehicles travel along Pensnett High Street each day, including large delivery lorries going to and from trading estates.

But Dudley Council has drawn up major plans to relieve tailbacks along the route passing Russells Hall Hospital.

Officials want to increase safety for motorists and pedestrians.

The project would see two sets of traffic lights introduced at junctions with Tansey Green Road and High Oak.

There would also be road widening to enable two lanes ahead of the lights and new pedestrian crossings.

It is hoped that these measures will allow for a free flow of traffic and improve safety for turning vehicles.

Delays

Transport boss Councillor Khurshid Ahmed said: "These major improvements to Pensnett High Street will help to reduce delays and congestion, improve road safety, air quality, pedestrian links and safety, as well as making sure that bus services are more reliable.

"The work is expected to start in January 2017 and, while this may seem a way off, what we want to do is share the more finalised version of the plans with those who live, work or shop in the area so views can be obtained.

"We will liaise with the community, motorists, shops and businesses."

As part of the project, Bradley Street, Birds Meadow and Tansey Green Road would be made left-turn only and High Oak would be right-turn only to the High Street.

Fresh idea offers food for thought

A NEW scheme aimed at making it easier for shoppers to pick healthier options has been launched at several convenience stores.

Dudley Council's office of public health is working with small retailers to encourage them to sell healthier foods and make it easier for customers to spot them.

So far seven shops across the borough have signed up to the Shop Healthy scheme and more are looking to get on board in the coming weeks.

Those who sign up are pledging to stock healthier foods, such as a range of fresh fruit and vegetables, healthier breakfast cereals and healthier grab-and-go items such as pasta salads and sandwiches.

Healthier items will be given greater prominence in-store and appear under the Shop Healthy logo. Stores will also provide recipe cards to help customers with healthy meal ideas.

Councillor Rachel Harris, cabinet member for health, said:"We want everyone in Dudley to make healthier lifestyle choices."

Massive foghorn is on the way to cone

Sandwell Council's Garry Morris gets a blast of the foghorn at Oak House before it moves to Wordsley

IT was once a symbol of Black Country engineering, keeping ships safe at sea. Now a replica of the famous Sandwell Foghorn is coming to Wordsley to go on display.

It was made by Ian Moran, a blacksmith and artist based in Cradley Heath. The replica was created three years ago as part of an art project celebrating Black Country heritage.

The giant structure has been standing outside the Oak House in West Bromwich. The idea came from workshops with residents and community groups as part of the Forging Links scheme. It was funded by £50,000 from the Heritage Lottery Fund, £20,000 from the Museums Library and Archives Council and £5,000 from Forging Links, the Sandwell-based museums and arts project.

The 19ft long horn, with a diameter of 9ft, was created from designs used by the historic Chance Brothers glassworks in Smethwick. Chance Brothers established a major lighthouse engineering company in the 19th Century.

Garry Morris, one of those who commissioned the replica, said it was a chance to take a closer look.

Mr Morris said: "Putting on a display like this gives people the chance to see just how large it is.

"It takes hours to assemble. We have to put it together using nuts and bolts. We like to tour it around the area and show it off. "

It will be on display outside the Red House Glass Cone in Wordsley until the end of November as part of the Black Country Echoes Festival, celebrating the area's industrial heritage.

Cloudy2Clear Windows – Service With A Smile!

It's been a crazy few months for Cloudy2Clear Windows. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes – not the frames has grown rapidly as homeowners take advantage of their services.

Managing Director Brian Stanley feels that it's all about service. 'Our product is simple. If your double glazing is misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 5 year guarantee. But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Many tradespeople have struggled since last year and I honestly feel that during the good times a minority perhaps didn't focus on customer care as much as they should have done.

We make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle. I often get comments back from customers on how they really didn't expect that sort of service which, in a way, is very sad for the service industry as a whole.'

Cloudy2Clear service Wolverhampton and the surrounding area and Brian is finding that his approach is a major factor in his success. 'The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated.'

IN MY VIEW

with Mark Andrews

WHEN I drove past my old school last week, the one thing that struck me was how much it had changed.

Not changed in the way that most places have in 30-odd years, but changed in the sense of its character, to an extent that it is now virtually unrecognisable.

Like many schools, much of the playing fields have been built on, with huge new extensions dwarfing the original buildings.But most noticeable of all is the steel collar of formidable-looking railings which now enclose the school grounds. About 7ft of dull, grey steel with sharp, menacing spikes. Yes, I know schools have had to up their security after the Dunblane massacre, but does it have to look quite so forbidding?

Which brings me to Redhill School in Stourbridge, which has come up with a very innovative way of making children eat their greens – by taking their fingerprints to monitor their eating habits.

To be honest, I began to feel uncomfortable when I began to read stories about children having chocolate biscuits confiscated by teachers at break time. Yes, we all know there is a problem with obesity in schools but is it really the role of teachers to become some sort of diet police?

Apparently other schools use some form of biometric system to keep tabs on the youngsters. But at a time when we constantly hear of schools complaining they are short of money, surely there are better things they could have spent £20,000 on? Like, I dunno, textbooks or chalk?

Yes, times change, and maybe the innocence of childhood is not where it was, but how did we get to the point where children spend their days surrounded by yards and yards of forbidding grey steel and are fingerprinted before they are allowed to eat their lunch. To be honest, that sounds not so much like a school to me. And more like an open prison.

On the subject of things not being what they used to be, Vauxhall has announced it is bringing back the Viva name for it's new city car.

The Viva, fondly remembered by many readers as a stylish, nippy small car for drivers discerning enough to choose it over the ubiquitous Ford Escort, and sane enough to choose it over the Austin Allegro with its square steering wheel.

And it was also the last Vauxhall designed in Britain, before the company became totally absorbed into the German Opel division.

Sadly, the new Viva won't be built in Britain, it won't be designed in Britain, in fact it won't be British at all. It will simply be a reskinned Chevrolet Spark (which is really a Daewoo, built in South Korea, and sold outside Britain as the Opel Karl).

Still, makes you proud to be British, doesn't it?

Getting snappy for zoo calendar

ALICE CHARLES gets a sneak preview of Dudley Zoological Gardens' 2015 calendar at its launch event

IF it flies, swims, purrs or squawks, then photographers from across the West Midlands have snapped it.

So when Dudley Zoological Gardens offered amateur photographers the chance to have their work displayed, hundreds jumped at the chance.

Thirteen lucky winners saw their work published in the 2015 calendar, while seven runners-up also received praise for their work. The winning pictures were selected from more than 200 entries from across the region.

The competition marked the first time the zoo had opened up the calendar to members of the public.

The calendar launch took place at a reception at the zoo's newly-installed outdoor gallery next to the tiger enclosure and was presided over by animal-mad Daniel Higgins, of Brierley Hill, who has helped raise cash for tiger conservation in the wild.

Ambassador

"Daniel is a great ambassador for Dudley Zoological Gardens, he's a regular visitor, so we were delighted when he agreed to do the official ribbon cutting," said Jill Hitchman, head of media and communications at Dudley Zoo.

Daniel was presented with a life-size stuffed tiger toy as a thank you. "I love Dudley Zoo and this is my best toy ever, I'm going to put it on my bed and think of all my favourite zoo animals before I go to sleep," he said.

Six-year-old Daniel succeeded in raising more than £200 through a sponsored onesie walk. His mother Donna Lane took the winning cover shot of a male Sumatran tiger. "Joao is simply beautiful, he's won my heart. This image captures his shy character as he explores his surroundings," she said.

Animal-crazy Daniel Higgins, aged 6, of Brierley Hill, launches the new calendar

Ms Hitchman said: "Within Dudley Zoological Gardens' 1,300-strong collection, we hold some of the most endangered animals on the planet.

"We're very privileged to share the lives of these magnificent creatures within the sanctuary that Dudley Zoological Gardens has offered since 1937. It's a passion endorsed by our loyal supporters and that's who we asked to provide this year's calendar shots. Competition was tough and it was a difficult task as standards were very high, but in the end I whittled it down to 12 monthly images, plus a front cover and seven runners-up shots that I felt should be included," she added.

"The images offer a glimpse of the wide range of animals at Dudley Zoological Gardenss," she said. "The calendars are available in the Safari Gift Shop, at £8.99, and sales are going very well."

Dudley Zoological Gardens' 40-acre site is home to a large collection of endangered species.

January's delightful image of a beautiful Sumatra tigress was taken by Kathryn Willett from Dudley. "She's the most awesome, photogenic tiger you will ever meet, it didn't take long to take the shot. I just have a bridge camera, Nikon P510," she said. "I sent three in and as Daseep is my favourite, it just made it even better. I've adopted her, I just adore her."

Becki Arnott from Lower Gornal took an arresting picture of bearded dragon Percy featured for February. Paul Cox from Kingswinford took a charming photograph of Bornean orang utan, Sprout which appears on March.

Jade Price from Cheltenham took April's beautiful picture of a Carpathian lynx.Vickie Fellows from Dudley describes herself as a "purely amateur" photographer and she took May's cheeky picture of Humboldt penguin, Peter. "I find penguins charming little characters," she said.

Talvinder Chohan from Birmingham took June's loveable picture of Columbian black spider monkeys. He said. "Within this image of Columbian black spider monkeys the same curiosity and inquisitiveness shared by all primates is reflected in a moment to which we can all relate."

July's image of ever-popular meerkats was captured by Tracy Davis from Birmingham using just her iPhone. Katie Edwards from Wombourne took a stunning picture for August of a Chilean flamingo adopting its trademark one-legged pose. Parnia Navabpour took September's image of a Sulawesi crested macaque and Karen Edwards from West Bromwich an engaging photograph of red panda, Yasmin, for October.

The picture of African spotted eagle owl, Kaiser, for November was taken by Ness Chapman of Sutton Coldfield. Steve Weaver from Rubery tookDecember's picture of snow leopard, Nanga.

WEEK IN POLITICS

with Daniel Wainwright

THE fate of the United Kingdom rested last week in the hands of a population smaller than that of the West Midlands.

It was right that it was just the Scots who decided on their nation's future as part of a family or on its own. The question now turns to south of the border.

In a late intervention to swing the vote in favour of No, the main party leaders promised Scotland the equivalent of Home Rule. Now it's time to wonder about England.

Public spending is £8,498 per head in the West Midlands, compared to £10,152 in Scotland. To put that in perspective, if the 5,602,000 people in the West Midlands had the same spending as Scotland they would get an extra £9,265,708,000 a year.

That's about 17 rebuilds of Birmingham's New Street station paid for every 12 months.

The West Midlands has proved that it is more than capable of pulling itself up by its boot straps when the Government gives it the right tools. Take, for example, the JLR engine plant on the Wolverhampton/Staffordshire border. Councils joined forces and agreed to fund the £36.7 million slip road from the M54 motorway – a key sweetener in attracting JLR to the site – by using the business rates they will collect as a way to pay off the investment.

But too much development has relied upon going cap-in-hand to Whitehall. And how many times have the hopes been dashed because governments just would not release the cash?

But with the Scots now about to receive more power it's time we ask the question: What about us?

Ian Austin is not an MP who is afraid to speak his mind, even if it does not necessarily fit the current party line.

He has long been calling for a referendum on Britain's membership of the EU and thinks it should be held before the General Election. He also thinks there should be tough action on illegal immigration.

So far, so common sense. And with a key marginal constituency in Dudley North, Mr Austin knows that it won't just be his core Labour supporters he needs to keep on side but the floating voters too.

UKIP knows this as well. But Mr Austin's opponent Bill Etheridge seems mightily miffed that the Labour MP is saying some of the same things that UKIP has.and thinks he ought to switch sides.

Mr Austin, of course, dismisses the idea utterly.

It's perhaps not the best strategy by UKIP to draw attention to the fact that a Labour MP can and does support the same 'common sense' arguments as it does, while also being a member of one of the biggest parties that could form either the Government or the main opposition.

Elderly penalised for holidaying abroad

MY wife and I booked a two week holiday abroad this week, and knowing that travel agencies blatantly rip you off where travel and holiday insurance costs are concerned, we chose to look elsewhere for cover.

We are a couple in our late seventies and, like many other people of our age, we have underlying medical conditions which means travel insurance costs are being loaded very much in favour of the insurers. We have just been quoted a figure that is equivalent to 25 percent of the original cost of the holiday.

Our medications are routinely prescribed by doctors to people of retirement age for ailments that might or might not occur.

Having lived in Britain and paying National Insurance contributions all my life, I feel I am being penalised for holidaying abroad rather than Rhyl, God forbid. In effect, I lose my National Insurance rights while holidaying abroad, and any medical costs, other than those covered by European health card provision, have to met by the insurer and, by association, me.

Bus pass is a necessity for OAPs

AS A PENSIONER I say to the powers that be — keep your hands off our bus passes.

Most of us don't drive or own a car, so a bus pass is a great help to us who use one.

It can be used to go shopping, visiting friends, or going to the doctors.

We pensioners spend a lot of money shopping at the towns that we may visit.

If the Government wish to save money stop giving it away to other countries and every immigrant that arrives on our shores.

Our pensions have not been keeping pace with inflation, so a bus pass helps us a bit more.

Call to sack doorstep smokers

IT'S about time employers woke up — wherever we go, my husband and I always bump into staff smoking. When they employ these people they should ask if you smoke. They should sack people who smoke as it lingers on clothes, breath, etc.

We have never smoked, we are 25 and 30-years-old and we think it's disgusting. All these kids who smoke at school don't know what they are doing to their bodies for later life.

I work at Kidderminster Hospital and see the people who come in with breathing problems.

I'm glad they banned it in pubs, cafes, etc. There's a lot of staff in Stourbridge alone who stand outside when they should be working.

I'm glad my children, of which I've got five, don't smoke or drink. They don't waste their money.

We would be glad when it's banned in shopping centres up and down the country.

Islam advocates love and respect not doctrine of hate

THE appalling murder of David Haines at the hands of a British follower of ISIS is a horrific act of evil.

Islam advocates love, respect and peace and this abhorrent murder again exposes that ISIS has nothing to do with Islam, faith or any other religion.

It is barbarity at its worst.

We stand united with people of United Kingdom in unequivocally condemning this gruesome killing and hope that those responsible are caught and face the full force of the law.

The Ahmadiyya Muslim Community, under the guidance of our Caliph, His Holiness Hazrat Mirza Masroor Ahmad, categorically reject extremists, wherever they may be, whatever their cause.

We believe in love for all and hatred for none, and that inter-faith and international dialogue is the only way to cultivate understanding and harmony between people.

Our thoughts and prayers are with the family of David Haines, may God provide solace and strength to the bereaved and to his loved ones. Amen.

Thank you Severn Trent

ON Tuesday, September 9, realising that our shared sewer pipe was blocked and in the knowledge that recent changes in the status of drainage pipes have been made, I telephoned Severn Trent at 3pm, who accepted liability and promptly sent out two workmen, who arrived and cleared the blockage by 5pm.

Many thanks to Sue and all involved for an excellent service.

They even rang back in the evening to check whether the work had been done!

Cyril celebrates 70 years of service to football, both on and off the pitch

FOR many local club football is a pleasurable way to spend Saturday mornings but for one Brierley Hill man it has been the most important thing in life for 70 years.

From kit man to caterer 86-year-old Cyril Cartwright, a founding member of Quarry Bank Celtic back in 1944, has covered every position imaginable.

West Bromwich Albion fan Cyril said: "I've been a manager, trainer, player, secretary and everything else. I drove the teams to away matches, put out refreshments and even washed the kits, although I didn't really like that job."

Whilst he occasionally took to the field, actually kicking the ball wasn't his forte. Cyril said: "I remember one time I was called up to play in a game and there was a talent scout there. I wasn't really very good at playing football and when the scout came over for a chat the lads all joked that they must have been desperate."

MEMORY LANE

By Charlie Benton

Cyril's skill was to be found in the administrative side of the game and as well as Quarry Bank he was also chief executive of the Midland Combination League and in recent years has been involved in the Kidderminster and District League. Cyril is involved with the running of the Dudley Metro Cup, for which he is treasurer.

Donate

He said: "We donate money to the Russells Hall Hospice and Corbett Hospital and altogether I think we've raised about £15,000.

"We are able to do it because the running costs are quite low, we get the ground for free and such, and that means we can donate more."

Quarry Bank Celtic was forced to close in 2005 but Cyril said has fond memories.

Outside of football Cyril began his working life at Blackheath goods yard in Rowley Regis and worked as a porter before moving on to work on lorries in Stourbridge.

Cyril worked as a lorry driver, a skill he put to good use driving Quarry Bank to games when necessary.

He later worked as a foreman, supervisor and in Customs and Excise before he retired at 60.

For his 40th and 50th milestones for service to football administration Cyril received commendations.

He said: "I didn't want to kick up a fuss of course and didn't really expect much but recognition is always nice."

Now, in his 70th year of service, he is still very much active in the world of local football.

He said: "I do it because I enjoy it, it has always been the most important thing in my life and always will be."

Cyril said his most difficult time in the game was when he was called to referee a women's match .

"There was talk that the match was going to be a bit heated and the original referee dropped out. I was drafted in to replace him and I've never been so scared in all my life.

"I awarded a penalty in the first five minutes which didn't go down too well and I couldn't wait to get off the pitch.

"Mind you, they gave me the man-of-the-match award, which was rather nice of them."

Cricket

Alongside his football career, Cyril said he was also vice president for Amblecote Cricket Club, and even ran as a Conservative councillor for Brierley Hill.

Despite suffering some health issues recently Cyril said he doesn't plan on slowing down.

Cyril said: "I have spent a little bit of time in hospital but when I was there there was a chap who said that he wished he could move as well as I could. I have to remind myself that there are those worse off than me."

Hands up those who... ...Had a fab summer, at the expense of those nagging maintenance jobs around the home & yard?

Exhibition celebrates town's glass heritage

Mayor of Dudley Margaret Aston is seen admiring examples of the work of glass artist Georgia Redpath

CRAFTED to echo the stunning pieces that Stourbridge glass makers have created for centuries, these works of art are now on display as part of a festival celebrating the industrial heritage of the Black Country.

The beautiful pieces of glass have been created over the last six months to bring together a collection, known as Objets D'Art, which will be shown at various venues around the Black Country until next year.

The exhibition has been put togetherfor the Black Country Echoes Festival celebrating the industrial heritage of the area and is on display at Dial Glassworks, Stewkins, Amblecote.

The exhibits have been created by four artists based at Ruskin Studios in Stourbridge; Carol Griffin, Georgia Redpath, Terri Colledge and Jo Newman. The exhibition is particularly special for Mrs Colledge, who is Black Country born and bred. The Coseley-based artist said: "It's been great to be involved with this because we have been able to look at the different ways of working, and explore the traditional methods."

The exhibition is at Dials until October 3, then moves to the Ruskin Glass Centre until January when it will be taken to Dudley Archives. See www.blackcountryechoes.org.uk website.

Taxi drivers help raise £1k for hospital eye unit

Taxi boss Shaz Saleem with eye clinic staff nurse Somia Kauser after borough cab drivers helped raise £1,155

MORE than £1,000 has been raised for hospital patients by taxi drivers who swapped their cabs for the football field in a charity tournament.

Taxi drivers put their footy skills to the test as they matched up for the annual DudleyTaxi Association cup, which this year was held at The Dell Stadium, Pensnett.

Organisers wanted to raise money for a cause close to home this year and picked Dudley's Russells Hall Hospital. In total, £1,155 was raised through the generosity of the drivers' passengers over recent weeks and the cash will be going to the eye unit at the hospital, after the drivers learned of the hard work by staff to help glaucoma patients.

Teams entered the tournament from taxi firms Express of Halesowen, Beacon of Sedgley, ABC of Dudley, Elite of Lye, Falcon of Stourbridge, Crown of Brierley Hill and A2B of Lye.

Organiser, Shaz Saleem, who is chairman of Dudley Private Hire and Taxi Association, said the tournament had been a real success.

"We are so grateful to our customers who helped us raise this money," he said. "Last year we raised money for Birmingham Children's Hospital, yet this year we thought we would look to support a cause in the borough.

"We heard about the work to treat glaucoma from our customers and realised it was such a worthwhile cause.

"When we heard about all the good work done at Russells Hall Hospital we decided to raise money for them again, in the future for other departments."

Elite Taxis took the title at the six a-side tournament this month beating Falcon 1-0 in the final.

COMMERCIAL FEATURE

Don't be disappointed - choose Choices Windows

The home improvement market is changing and the demand for more choice in colour and suitability of PVC-U doors and windows is growing. Fashionable additions such as orangeries are increasingly desirable, as more people look for ways to improve their home.

Established since 1994, Tipton Windows & Conservatories Ltd, trading as Choices , believe that the latest trends are important, but quality products and exceptional service will always be paramount, which this family run business have proven over two decades.

Situated on Sedgley Road West in Tipton, the founder and company Managing Director Nathan Beddows started the business from scratch at the early age of 19 working out of the very same premises as he does today, He explains his passion:

"I cannot stress enough how much pride we take in every window, door, conservatory, orangery we manufacture and install."

With its roots in manufacturing, the business started more than 20 years ago, and right from the very start an emphasis has been placed on supplying only the finest and most energy-efficient products, but still remaining affordable.

"Our commitment extends beyond the manufacturing process to the design and installation of doors, windows, conservatories and other home improvement services," explains Nathan.

"For some customers we supply new windows and doors, for others we provide a complete home improvement service from building extensions and fitting kitchens, to designing and installing conservatories and more recently Orangeries," says Nathan.

One tremendously satisfied customer is Rick Houghton. Having being recommended to Choices Windows by colleagues at work he employed them to carry out extensive work at his home, he is keen to share his experiences and commend the team involved.

"Every stage of the process was excellently planned and we received nothing but the best service from start to finish. The tradesmen were outstanding and we were so impressed that we handed over our keys and went on holiday whilst the work was being carried out."

Rick and his family were absolutely thrilled and utterly delighted with the results on their return.

"We are so grateful to Nathan and his team for transforming our home into something we could only have dreamed of," remarked Rick.

Keen to keep ahead in the style stakes, Nathan is ever aware of the latest designs, materials and colours on offer, and strives to make these available to his customers.

"Many people are now opting for stylish coloured PVC-U, influenced by timeless muted 'National Trust' tones. Sage green, gun metal grey and cream are all becoming very fashionable alongside the traditional clean bright white," explains Nathan.

Fitting new PVC-U windows can be a good choice for the environment as well as for your home. Replacing dated double glazing can help save money on heating bills and reduce the carbon footprint of a residence.

"We offer A-rated energy-efficient windows and doors which can help save up to £250 from heating bills in the first year alone. They not only reflect heat back into the house, but also retain heat from solar gain," remarks Nathan.

"As a company we pride ourselves on giving old fashioned value for money and excellent service, we can undertake the majority of jobs and because we manufacture in house at our premises unlike the majority of our local competitors it enables us to have full control so we can manage your project from start to completion ensuring your experience is stress free".

"After many years in the Double glazing business we have seen a lot of competitors come and go, unfortunately leaving many customers without any warranty, after parting with their hard earned cash. Any customer who is considering having any home improvements should choose carefully and do their homework on the company they are considering, ensure if you part with money upfront it is protected by a Fensa approved deposit indemnity scheme, ask to visit previous customers but most importantly don't be fooled by the salesmen's tactics of a tempting "sign on the night low price offer" that the double glazing industry is notorious for "advises Nathan.

The old sayings are always the best - after a low price is long forgotten, poor quality long remains".

Victorian magic lights up meeting

Coven WI

THERE was a good turnout at the September meeting. The president welcomed everyone, Jerusalem was sung, the previous minutes were read confirmed and correspondence were read and tabled for members' information.

The Victorian evening was excellent and the meal in August at the bistro was enjoyed by those who attended.

The president welcomed Brian Morris who presented a Victorian magic lantern show. He was suitably dressed in Victorian attire and he brought along his hand operated Victorian magic lantern and a large variety of glass slides which depicted all aspects of Victorian life.

Brian, the ultimate showman, encouraged audience participation with questions and chatter; some members were delighted that it brought back memories of their childhood while attending Sunday School.

There were slides of the seaside and old bathing huts, formal family portraits, beautiful babies in large coach built prams, London scenes with trams, old bicycles of the 1800s and so much more.

Brian has been collecting slides for more than 25 years.

Refreshments followed a raffle and a sales table, with money raised going to the First Responders.

Shaun Beech from the PDSA will be the guest at the October 14 meeting, at Coven Memorial Hall at 7.30pm.

Ladies serve up a treat for cyclists

Some of the ladies who served refreshments for the cyclists at Bobbington Village Hall

Trysull & Seisdon WI

ALTHOUGH there was no meeting in August, the club did have two events which were very enjoyable.

The first was an outing on the Churnet Valley railway, which included a cream tea. The members also enjoyed another cream tea at the Angel café in Tettenhall after taking part in a treasure hunt organised by president Sue Cotterell. Both outings were well attended giving the ladies a chance to meet up over the summer.

A couple of months earlier, committee members served refreshments at Bobbington Village Hall to hundreds of cyclists who took part in a ride to raise money for Brewood scout hut. The September meeting was a fish and chip supper followed by a Harvest Auction. Everyone had been very generous bringing produce and other items for the table.

Clare Preece was the auctioneer and there was a lot of banter and laughter while bids were being made. The competition for an autumn arrangement was won by Rita Brown, and Mary Westwood won the raffle.

On Thursday October 9, shoeboxes will be filled for Operation Christmas Child. Meetings are at 7.30pm at the village hall.

Speaker's delightful talk

Quarry Bank E TWG

CHAIRMAN Vera Wright gave a warm welcome to all present at the July meeting.

The meeting progressed as usual with the reading and signing of the previous month's minutes. The treasurer's report was also given.

A letter from Compton Hospice giving thanks for the donation received via Mr Mike Sampson, speaker at the previous meeting.

Social Secretary Mrs Writtle suggested a visit to Bicester Shopping Village.

Speaker was Mary Edwards on 'Four Seasons Gardens'. It was a truly delightful talk – a series of slides showing flowers and scenes appropriate to the various seasons, and comments and pictures backed by Vivaldi's music.

She was thanked very much for her most enjoyable contribution to our meeting.

The evening concluded as usual with the serving of tea and biscuits.

Hippodrome put on national list of the theatres 'at risk'

At risk — Dudley Hippodrome building

A LANDMARK former theatre in Dudley has been place on the Theatres Trust's list of the nation's most 'at risk' venues.

Campaigners are working on fresh plans to rescue Dudley Hippodrome in Castle Hill which has been earmarked for demolition by the council.

The annual register features theatres which under threat of the wrecking ball and redevelopment as well as buildings that are abandoned, neglected or decaying, and those in use but at risk of closure.

It comes as The Friends of Dudley Hippodrome group and events company Events that Rok have until the end of October to put forward revised proposals to re-open the building.

Bingo

Dudley Hippodrome, also a former Gala Bingo hall, is one of 33 buildings on the register.

The Trust's report says: "It was well maintained while in bingo use and the interior still has a theatrical 'feel'. Later alterations within the auditorium are fully reversible and it would be possible to return the theatre to live use."

Mhora Samuel, Director of The Theatres Trust said: "The Theatre Buildings at Risk Register really raises awareness of the plight of many of our most threatened theatres."

He added: "It makes people much more aware of the beautiful and much loved theatres that could be lost forever if action is not taken."

Scarecrows go to the movies

THE Belbroughton Scarecrow Festival is to return this weekend for its 19th year.

The event takes over the whole of the village and more than 100 scarecrows are expected to be displayed at the festival, which is on Saturday and Sunday. The theme for this year will be the movies' greatest heroes and villains.

Money raised from the festival will be shared between charities. Organisers will also be taking food collections for the Black Country Foodbank.

Sing

The weekend is said to attract some 20,000 visitors and this year they have special guests, community choir Got 2 Sing performing at Belbroughton Recreation Centre on Saturday.

The youth choir sing songs from Frozen at 12.30 and the adult choir sings at 2.30pm. See belbroughton scarecrow.co.uk for details.

TV antiques trip expert visits shop

Celebrity auctioneer Charles Hanson, left, with Phil Sims

CAMERAS from BBC TV's Antiques Road Trip arrived at The Sims Vintage Shop in Belbroughton, near Stourbridge, last week to film for an episode to be shown next year.

Phil Sims was greeted at his shop, off Stourbridge Road, by celebrity auctioneer Charles Hanson .

It comes weeks after Mr Sims made a discovery which has seen him make headlines. Five valuable pocket watches dating back to the 19th Century were found in a ginger jar more than 10 years after they went missing.

Steve Bubb had given up all hope of seeing the family heirlooms again after scouring his family home in Clent.

The 58-year-old brewery owner had handed over a large ginger jar to his friend MrSims to sell for £20 but luckily the antiques dealer found the treasured family watches wrapped up in newspaper inside the jar and let Mr Bubb know. It is thought his late mother may have hidden them in the jar but then forgot about them.

Mr Sims said: "BBC's Antiques Road Trip TV show filmed at our shop for about five hours and it will be televised in their next series."

Christian library invite for the public

A CHRISTIAN library in Stourbride is extending an invitation to new visitors.

Around 4,000 books line the shelves inside the Robin Woods Library inside the New Road Methodist Church Centre, in Stourbridge. The theological and Christian education library is based at the centre on the town's ring road.

Run by a team of volunteers, the library is open to the public and includes a quiet reading area, toilets and limited parking. There is no charge for borrowing books.

Librarian and volunteer co-ordinator Jan Scott said: "The library is a valued and important community resource for everyone exploring spirituality and faith."

It was originally set up in the mid-1990s by Frances Gibson, and is one of two libraries belonging to the Worcester Diocese. In 2002 the library moved to its present location from the Robin Woods Centre, in Scotts Road, Stourbridge.

Reality TV star's son is jailed after car crash

THE son of reality television star Paddy Doherty has been jailed for 14 months for crashing a stolen BMW into an oncoming car after a high speed police chase through the Black Country.

Martin Doherty, aged 20, was accompanied by four others when he led police on the eight-mile chase through icy streets, Wolverhampton Crown Court heard.

The pursuit ended when Doherty crossed the central reservation on the A4123 Birmingham New Road and smashed head-on into another car, leaving its driver hospitalised and both vehicles written-off.

After the hearing, former bare-knuckle boxing champion Paddy Doherty, who starred in My Big Fat Gypsy Wedding and won Celebrity Big Brother, said his son had 'got what he deserved' after Judge Martin Walsh handed him the 14-month sentence.

Jailed — Martin Doherty, 20, led police on an eight-mile car chase

Lesson — TV celebrity Paddy Doherty said his son got what he deserved

Appalling

The judge told Martin Doherty he was fortunate his 'appalling' driving did not have 'catastrophic' consequences.

Police spotted the BMW t being driven erratically on the A461 at Dudley Port on December 7, 2012.

Mr Zaheer Afzal, prosecuting, said when police started to follow the car it made off at high speed, entering Priory Road and heading into Dudley town centre before rejoining Birmingham New Road in the direction of Wolverhampton.

During the hearing the court was shown dramatic footage of the chase taken from a pursuing police car, during which Doherty was said to have committed 'numerous traffic violations'.

Mr Zaheer said: "He drove through roadworks and on the opposite side of the road towards oncoming traffic, overtaking other cars at excessive speed. Throughout the entire incident his driving was extremely erratic."

The chase ended on Birmingham New Road near the junction with Sedgley Road West when Doherty drove the BMW through a central reservation and smashed head on into a Nissan Micra driven by Ronald Gough. Mr Gough had to be cut free from the wreckage by emergency services.

He suffered multiple injuries as a result of the smash. It took him a month to make a full recovery, said Mr Afzal.

All five defendants fled the scene but were found hiding in gardens near Foxyards Primary School.

The court was told that none of the defendants were involved in the theft of the BMW, which had been stolen in October 2012 and was using false number plates.

Defending Doherty, who had been visiting friends in Dudley, Mr Adam Roxborough, said: "His father has taken him under his wing and is teaching him the building trade. "

Construction worker Doherty, of Riverside Caravan Park, Queensferry, Cheshire, admitted aggravated vehicle taking. He was jailed for 14 months and disqualified from driving for three years.

Paddy Doherty, 55, said: "What he did was wrong and he has got what he deserves.

"He could be dead. I am grateful to God for giving him back to me. He has learned his lesson and these days he is out working every day and keeping away from trouble."

The four passengers in the BMW — Daniel McDonagh, 20, of Sunnyview Road, Chester, and three 18-year-old youths — also admitted charges related to the offence and were sentenced to suspended terms in a youth offenders institution, and given orders to carry out unpaid work.

Weddings in fashion at castle

AN HISTORIC estate is throwing open its doors as it hosts its first ever bridal fashion show on Sunday.

Hartlebury Castle, near Kidderminster, is holding the event between 11am and 3pm. The show will form part of the castle's autumn wedding fair which takes place in the former Bishop's Palace and State Rooms.

It is free to enter and gives visitors an opportunity to take a tour around the castle's Georgian Saloon, which will also play host to a demonstration wedding at 12pm, the Castle Chapel and to take a turn around the castle's wonderful carriage circle, which will be home to a selection of vintage wedding cars for the day.

The fair is raising funds for Hartlebury Castle Preservation Trust. Brides will be given a free goodie bag on arrival.

More staff at hospitals in bid to tackle delays

A DOZEN new specialist health workers are to be drafted in at hospitals this winter in an attempt to reduce the number of patients left waiting in corridors with ambulance staff.

The hospital ambulance liaison staff will add to the 17 already working in the West Midlands.

Most will be based at major hospitals, including New Cross in Wolverhampton and Russells Hall in Dudley. But others will be mobile and can be called to smaller hospitals like Walsall Manor when needed.

It is part of a bid by the ambulance service to reduce delays when paramedics bring patients to hospitals. During the 2013/14 financial year, paramedics wasted more than 18,000 hours waiting for a spare beds for their patients.

By Alex Ross

Hospitals have a 30 minute target to take the patient but this lapsed on 138,900 occasions during the financial year.

Hospital ambulance liaison officers were brought in to help ease the delays over the past three years. As pressure continues to increase on the ambulance service due to increased call-outs, chief executive Anthony Marsh has come up with a plan for 12 more over the six-month winter period.

Better

Asked if the handover times for patients were a problem, Mr Marsh said: "Sometimes - it is not a problem every day, it is not a problem at every hospital, but it is a problem.

"It is better than it used to be and we continue to work hard with each hospital to minimise those delays because whilst the delays themselves are not the problem, the problem is the patients out there who are waiting for an ambulance that I can't send an ambulance to. Why? Because they are still in the corridor at a hospital.

"We work with hospitals to bring down the delays."

He said: "What we are doing is, from the additional winter funding given, we are looking to increase hospital ambulance liaison staff cover at main hospitals."

In March this year Dudley Clinical Commissioning Group fined The Dudley Group NHS Foundation Trust, which runs Russells Hall Hospital, £74,750 for 334 ambulance handover delays. The money was re-invested into improving emergency care with the aim of reducing handover delays. The hospital trust said it is working with the ambulance service to tackle the problem.

Career highlight with no strings attached

CHEEKY puppets in an American show that some have described as an adults' only version of The Muppets actually had Black Country talent pulling the strings.

When brash Tony award-winning Broadway and West End comedy Avenue Q came the New Alexandra Theatre in Birmingham last week on stage were two actor/puppeteers from Dudley.

College

Stourbridge-born Richard Morse, who appears as Brian, is a former Thorns Community College pupil who went on to study at King Edwards College before learning his craft at Liverpool Institute for Performing Arts.

He was delighted to be back in the West Midlands, adding: "I get a chance not only to perform the show on home turf but in front of all of my friends and family in a packed theatre."

Performing alongside Richard was Kingswinford-born Jessica Parker, 31.

She said: "I'm so thrilled. It's ticked off the last stage that I really wanted to perform on since I was little."

Competitive anglers have reeled in £1,200 for Guide Dogs

ANGLERS have netted more than £1,200 after casting out to raise money for guide dogs.

Fundraisers brought in cash for Guide Dogs for the Blind at a contest held at KC Fisheries in Hartlebury. The event, also involving a raffle and donations, was organised by Marie Court of Halesowen, and John Butler from HSBC bank.

Marie has set a target of raising £5,000 over the coming months and will be organising other events with the support of her family. Her nephew Jordan Edgar has raised more than £100 at his school.

Support

Mrs Court said: "I am completely overwhelmed by the support we received and would especially like to thank Rob and Keith of KC Fisheries for donating their ponds and helping run the competition we just simply couldn't have done it without their help and generosity, and HSBC for their generous donation.

Donations have been counted up following the event on July 5. Guide Dogs Community Fundraiser, Miles Northwood, added: "The help they get from people like Rob and Keith of KC fisheries is invaluable."

Home team help charity

STAFF and residents at a Dudley borough children's home have raised hundreds of pounds for charity by taking part in a mini-triathlon.

Twelve members of staff from Maitland Road Children's Home were joined by three residents and one former resident at the event earlier this month. They took part in a three mile bike ride and a 1.5mile run at Mary Stevens Park in Stourbridge before heading to Dudley Leisure Centre to complete the challenge with a 0.5 mile swim.

They managed to raise more than £750 for White House Cancer Support in Dudley.

Burglars bested

BURGLARS struck at a pub in Lye but left empty handed after they were unable to break open the till.

Police were called at around 7am on Thursday after raiders forced their way into the Holly Bush pub on Cemetery Road by breaking a window.

Tenants' new role on board

A NEW board consisting of council tenants, residents and council members will replace area housing panels in Dudley borough after an independent review of tenant and resident involvement.

The structure was agreed by Dudley Council and the Dudley Federation of Tenants and Residents Association last week.

Councillor Pete Lowe, deputy leader, said: "As a community council we are committed to engaging with local people and we know that this is what tenant and residents want. I am sure that by working together we will make sure that we provide the best possible housing service to the people of Dudley borough."

The new board will have the responsibility for allocating the Community Safety and Environment budgets as well as ensuring the council provides affordable homes and services.

The current interim housing board will remain in place until March 31 2015 when the new board will then be finalised.

Garden project in grant snag

CAMPAIGNERS have suffered a blow in their bid to buy an 18th century walled garden after councillors deferred plans to give a £5,000 grant.

Members of Halesowen Abbey Trust want to buy the Grade I listed garden at The Leasowes park, in Halesowen, to open it to the public. It has been shut since closing as a centre for horticultural students after the then-Stourbridge College left the site 18 months ago.

Campaigners struck a deal with new owners Birmingham Metropolitan College in a bid to safeguard the future of the garden. But the trust had hoped to secure £5,000 from councillors on the Belle Vale and Hayley Green community forum towards their costs. Councillors deferred a decision, saying they needed more information.

Trust leader Mick Freer vowed to ensure the deal was sealed by its mid-October deadline.

He added: "We will buy it one way or another. It is a blip, but that's life."

Having reached our 40th year of trading we feel we must have got it right says Dave Vaughan, founder director of local family firm of Amblecote Furnishers. Because we go that extra mile to give a friendly personal service at competitive prices is the reason we have enjoyed a successful 40 years out lasting many recessions and out of town large warehouses that have since long gone (and sometimes taken customers deposits with them).
Even in today's difficult economic climate we have weathered the storm, competing with so called internet traders, some of which have proved to be somewhat dubious.
Along with fellow directors Dave Southwick, Andy Vaughan and our own carpet and vinyl flooring technician Alex Cole, we can give you that knowledgable personal service from time of order to delivery to your home; in most cases within 24 hours if required, and at a time to suit you (no waiting in all day holding your breath!), and only when your furniture or carpet has been delivered and placed in your room do we then, and only then, ask you to pay.
To celebrate our milestone anniversary we are holding a 10 day event offering extra big reductions, special offers and freebies.
Pay us a visit if only to browse and put our service to the test, we guarantee you will be both surprised with our choice and prices and will be more than pleased.

The dancing grannies made Bill's birthday extra special

THEY'RE the dancing grannies who became a YouTube hit but they have made one man their 'own age' very happy after performing for his birthday.

Bill Poole's family arranged for The Fizzogs to perform at Westley Court Care Home, in Cookley, for his 87th birthday and the group became a hit with the residents.

The 'grannies' performed for around 20 of Mr Poole's family and 30 residents in a surprise present for him.

Mr Poole, who lived in Stourbridge before moving to the home, said he loved the performance .

His daughter, Valerie, said: "We first saw The Fizzogs last year and then watched them on YouTube and my dad loved them.

"He's a real Black Country boy and loves his Black Country humour so we thought it would be fantastic if they performed for him. He loves a good laugh and a sing song and that's why he loves The Fizzogs."

"It was absolutely brilliant, all the residents were in tears of laughter.

Former welder Mr Poole, who has been at the care home since June, was born in Wordsley but lived most of his life in Wollescote.

Mrs Smith added: "They really enjoyed performing for the residents and were quite touched by it, so they have agreed to come back and do it again for Christmas."

Severn Trent make promise to improve

COMPLAINTS made to Severn Trent have risen by five per cent, the second highest increase of all water firms in the country, a report has revealed.

Figures show that the company received 18,813 written complaints in 2013/14, up from 17,858 a year earlier.

However, the numbers have reduced greatly in the past four years, down 22 per cent.

In total 123,218 written complaints received by all water companies between April 1 2013 and March 31 this year is the equivalent of more than 300 every day. More than half were about billing and charges matters.

A Severn Trent Water spokeswoman said: "We're committed to the highest standards of customer service and so any rise in the number of complaints is disappointing. Overall the number of complaints has fallen by more than 20 per cent over the last three years and we've put a number of measures in place to improve the way we help our customers."

£495k is price tag for village police HQ

A VILLAGE police station which was axed as part of cost cutting by a Midlands force has been put on the market for a six figure sum.

Hagley Police Station shut in April after cash-strapped West Mercia Police battled to make multi-million savings to squeezed budgets. Officers now have to share a 'community policing post' with Rubery set up at the home of Hagley Parish Council.

By Andrew Turton

The former police station, in Kidderminster Road, has been put up for sale for £495,000 with Edgbaston based estate agents Harris Lamb.

Plans were first announced by the force last year after it emerged the organisation needed to make cuts of £20 million by 2015.

Resources

Other services have also been scaled back including opening hours at front counters at Kidderminster with the counter shut completely in Stourport station.

Police bosses say West Mercia Police estate has been reviewed to release money to pay for the workforce and front line policing and other resources.

West Mercia Police acknowledged Hagley Police Station was up for sale but did not comment further.

But Police and Crime Commissioner Bill Longmore previously said: "Ultimately the fewer buildings we have and the more we reduce our estate the more resources we will have to protect communities.

"This new approach will deliver significant savings both now and in the future.

"Despite all these changes the public will see an increased presence on their streets and channels through which they will be able to meet and speak with a member of our workforce will be broadened."

Hagley Residents Action group spokesman Peter Rowbottom urged police chiefs to spend money from the sale on policing in the village.

"Hagley Residents Action Group feel that it would be appropriate if all or most of the potential money from the sale of Hagley Police Station was reinvested in policing in Hagley and the surrounding smaller villages," he said.

"It could also potentially be spent on a police community post as part of a proposed new Hagley Community Hub.

"Extra police officers and resources will certainly be needed in the Hagley area in future as its population is set to increase by almost 20 per cent in the next two years due to the building of over 350 new homes.

"There should be some way of ensuring that additional police resources will be provided.

NEET figures are falling across region

THE number of young people not in education, employment or training in the Black Country has fallen during the last year, it has emerged.

The latest figures show 5.4 per cent of 16 to 18 year olds across the region were not studying or working in May this year, compared to 7.5 per cent at the same point in 2013.

In a report compiled by the Government's Client Caseload Information System, the Black Country is shown to be bucking the national trend for the age group.

The figure for the UK is now 5.4 per cent – around 800,000 – which represents a slight increase on last year. Across the four Black Country authorities a total of 2,210 people aged 16 to 24 were not in education, employment or training known as NEET as of May this year.

Council chiefs in the region said they were pleased the figures had dropped and said it was the result of hard work.

It's no longer a labour of love as brothers row over UB40 name

Review

Ian Pittaway & Billie Spakemon
Newhampton Folk Club

THE autumn season of the Newhampton Folk Club kicked off with two very different acts sharing the bill upstairs in the Newhampton Inn, Whitmore Reans.

Billie Spakemon, a storyteller and singer from Oldbury, is passionate about the Black Country dialect — so much so he has a PhD in it and speaks at international conferences.

When you get someone such as Spakemon who is proud of the local tongue, it takes on a new life and a kind of magic happens where you reconnect to terms such 'jed', meaning dead, and 'fittle' , food. His stories and songs covered murder, wife selling, love, courtship and parenthood.

In contrast was Ian Pittaway who specialises in mediaeval and renaissance music which he plays on two beautifully crafted lutes. The music he expertly plays are as authentic as you can get without a time machine to take you back to the 16th century.

His gentle and precise skill on the instruments — he plays guitar too — is impressive to watch. The sound he produces is the sort of music which the likes of Shakespeare would have listened to.

Both performances were unplugged which meant they were fighting against the sound of the Oxjam festival going on downstairs in the pub, and while it didn't spoil the show, the loud music was intrusive.

Danny Farragher

ONE of the best loved musicals is returning to Wolverhampton next month. Lionel Bart's Oliver! is based on the classic novel by Charles Dickens about the adventures of orphan Oliver Twist in 19th century London.

Oliver! is staged at the Grand Theatre from October 14 to 18 in a production by South Staffs Musical Theatre Company. It features such memorable songs as Food Glorious Food, Consider Yourself, As Long As He Needs Me and I'd Do Anything.

Mike Thomas, of Albrighton, will play Fagin while James Collins, a teacher at Smestow School, plays nasty Bill Sykes. Office worker Lexie Bennett, of Upper Gornal, makes her company debut as Nancy. The title role will be shared by James Shaw, aged nine, from Brewood, and 12-year-old Ben Sidaway, of Stourport. Call the box office on 01902 429212.

ALI Campbell and brother Duncan are the Cain and Abel of reggae.

Both front bands called UB40. Confused? You should be. So's Ali — and he helped create the band and sang with them for more than 30 years, selling 70 million records including hits like Kingston Town and Red, Red Wine, among many others.

Trouble is, there are now two bands using the name UB40. There's Ali, Mickey and Astro, then there's the rest of the guys.

Following a sold out gig at Birmingham O2 Academy on December 19, Ali's UB40 will line up at Birmingham's NIA on April 17 next year – though they might have changed their name by then.

He said: "The thing is, there's a lot of confusion and we want to clear it up.

Ali Campbell — on the road

Legendary

"When me, Astro and Mikey go out, I make sure the fans know they are coming to see me. We call the show The Legendary Voice of UB40, or Ali Campbell's UB40.

"The other guys are accusing me of 'passing off', which means I'm pretending to be UB40. But I'm the one who started the band. I think it's hilarious."

The matter is heading to court and Ali's been served with a writ, urging him to cease and desist from using the name UB40.

"I was forced into leaving because of all sorts of issues. I'd had enough. The next thing I know my brother, Duncan, has joined the band. It's proper Cain and Abel stuff. I haven't spoken to any of them. It stresses me out."

There are, of course, two sides to every story and 'the other' UB40 have pinned the blame on Ali.

Meanwhile Ali's doing what he does best, he's taking to the road to sing.

"This year, we're off to Australia, New Zealand, Africa, India and the USA. We don't want anything to stop us," he said.

Andy Richardson

Wouldn't it be good to see Nik?

PRIME gigs this week include 1980s hit-maker Nik Kershaw at Bilston's Robin 2 tonight and American singer-songwriter James Taylor at the LG Arena tomorrow.

Steve Craddock of Birmingham's Ocean Colour Scene is at Wolverhampton venue The Slade Rooms on Saturday, same night as The Busbys' charity bash at Robin 2. Mancunians 1975 have sold out their Wolverhampton Civic gig on Monday, the same night The Horrors play The Institute in Digbeth.

The highly-rated Nell Bryden, last seen in Wolverhampton supporting Gary Barlow, is at the Robin 2 on Wednesday, the same night The Sunshine Underground play the Slade Rooms.

Comedy nights at city venues

IT is comedy all the way in Wolverhampton over the next week. Dave Gorman brings his Work In Progress to the Slade Rooms for two nights, on Monday and Tuesday, then one of Ireland's favourite comics, Tommy Tiernan, on Thursday, October 2.

Also coming up at the same venue are radical comic Andy Zaltzman on Saturday, October 4, and Edinburgh Festival success Peter Johansson on October 9.

Meanwhile, Michael Palin will be talking about Python and his globe-trotting adventures in Travelling To Work at Birmingham's New Alexandra Theatre on Tuesday.

The Time Lord's companions have always lived double lives – one involving their friends and family, usually on Earth, with the other focusing on travelling through time and space saving the universe with their alien best buddy. Clara thinks this arrangement suits her just fine – after all, what could be better than gallivanting with the Gallifreyan one minute, and then settling down to watch telly with her new boyfriend the next? But when terrifying events threaten Coal Hill, the last thing she needs is for the school to welcome a relief caretaker with a Scottish accent – especially as it means he may finally come face to face with Danny. Our Girl (BBC1, 9pm)
Molly seems to be settling into life in Afghanistan with surprising ease, as she even strikes up a rapport with a little girl named Bashira. However, not everyone is convinced their bond is a good thing, as Captain James advises the medic against becoming too involved with the locals. His words cause Molly to question Bashira's motives for befriending her, but when the youngster lets slip some vital information about the insurgency, the entire platoon has no choice but to embark on a potentially explosive mission. It looks as if Captain James's warning could come back to haunt Molly as she realises she's placed her own life and that of Bashira in danger. Lacey Turner, Ben Aldridge and Iwan Rheon star.

PICK OF THE WEEK

Thomas returns to expand his empire

Razor blades hidden in caps, danger around every corner and dastardly goings-on in Birmingham – that's the stuff this hit drama is made of.

Peaky Blinders arrived in a blaze of publicity last year, and with good reason – it's not every day that Hollywood stars of the calibre of Cillian Murphy and Sam Neill agree to appear on BBC Two. Not that this is a cheaply made affair – far from it in fact.

As well as a great script from Steven Knight, writer of the screenplays for Eastern Promises and Dirty Pretty Things, and wonderful performances, the production design also helps transform the tale into something very special indeed – heaps of trouble has gone into recreating post-First World War Midlands, and it often feels like a very foreboding world indeed.

The first series was a big success, so it came as no surprise when a second was commissioned.

Knight was particularly thrilled, because the idea for the series came from shadowy tales he heard from elderly members of his family.

"I am so pleased we will be able to continue to tell this story of a working class family living through extraordinary times in an extraordinary way. The Peaky Blinders will march on to many surprising places and fight astonishing battles as the 1920s begin to roar."

Another big star is set to make an appearance in series two – Tom Hardy.

Last year he starred in Locke, an inventive film written and directed by Knight set entirely inside a car. He's also well-known to Murphy – the pair appeared in The Dark Knight Rises, the final film in director Christopher Nolan's Batman trilogy. Now they're back on screen again, pitting their wits against each other.

Murphy was chillingly believable in the first run as Thomas Shelby, head of a criminal family, while Hardy joins the cast as Thomas's arch enemy from way back.

The action now takes place in the Roaring Twenties, with Thomas determined to develop the Shelby businesses, both legally and illegally, in new territories. But when we meet up with him again, a blast from the past is all set to put a spanner in the works…

"It's classic crime family stuff," says the Irish actor. "But whatever the shift in power or that push and pull is, the family is unbelievably tight."

They also look startlingly similar thanks to their severe short-back-and-sides haircut – we're talking about the men only, of course - which makes them appear threatening in real life.

"The look thing was very important," explains Murphy. "There was a real peaky blinders gang that existed, and they were far more vicious and brutal than the gang that we are depicting. However, it was necessary that they controlled this part of Birmingham, so they instil a fear and respect in people, so we need to look tough. So for a load of fey actors, it was important to get the look right."

They certainly do look right – and should add to the menace this time around too.

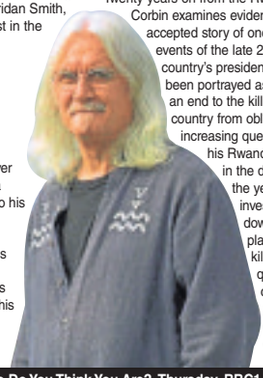
Cillian Murphy heads the cast of Peaky Blinders, Thursday, BBC2, 9pm

BEST OF THE REST

MONDAY
New Tricks
BBC1, 9pm
The arrest of a Turkish girl who has been working illegally leads Ucos to reopen the case of Richard Gibson, a pub landlord who died in a fire in 2009. The original investigation concluded Gibson's death was probably suicide due to his dire financial situation, but the detectives have some questions about the pub's live-in barmaid, who disappeared on the night of the blaze. Could widowed landlady Joanna, pub regular Jason, or the dead man's best friend David, who happens to have a sideline in passing off his British-produced sparkling wine as French champagne, supply them with any answers? While the case tests the team's brain power, Sasha is also keen to raise their fitness levels as she signs them up for a five-a-side football competition. Phil Davis, Niamh Cusack and Tom Georgeson guest star.

Cilla
ITV, 9pm
It looks like Cilla has put that early botched audition and those disappointing record sales behind her as, following the success of Anyone Who Had a Heart, her new single You're My World becomes her second number one. However, while she may have conquered the UK charts, can she follow in the footsteps of her old mates the Beatles and crack America? The signs aren't looking good, and just to add to the pressure, her relationship with Bobby is becoming increasingly tumultuous. But as her manager Brian Epstein's private life starts to spiral out of control, it seems there could be an even bigger threat to Cilla's new-found success. The concluding instalment of Jeff Pope's biopic charting Cilla Black's rise to fame, starring Sheridan Smith, Aneurin Barnard and Ed Stoppard. Last in the series.

TUESDAY
The Driver
BBC1, 9pm
The crime drama continues, as Vince realises just how far out of his depth he has gotten since agreeing to be the driver for gang leader The Horse. He nurses a guilty conscience as his thoughts turn to his involvement in the last job and so sets about trying to make things right – although little does he realise his actions are going to impact on Col. Meanwhile, Ros is becoming increasingly suspicious of what her husband is getting up to in his spare time, and it looks like Vince's two worlds may be about to collide. Feeling at a loss, he tries to piece his family back together by visiting his son Tim and making an emotional plea. David Morrissey, Claudie Blakley, Ian Hart and Lewis Rainer star.



Who Do You Think You Are?, Thursday, BBC1, 9pm

WEDNESDAY
This World: Rwanda's Untold Story
BBC2, 9pm
Twenty years on from the Rwandan genocide, Jane Corbin examines evidence that challenges the accepted story of one of the most horrifying events of the late 20th century. The country's president Paul Kagame has long been portrayed as the man who brought an end to the killing and rescued his country from oblivion, but there are increasing questions about the role of his Rwandan Patriotic Front forces in the dark days of 1994 and in the years since. The film investigates the shooting down of the presidential plane that sparked the killings in 1994, questions Kagame's claims to have ended the genocide and examines allegations of war crimes committed by his forces and their allies.

THURSDAY
Who Do You Think You Are?
BBC1, 9pm
Some great names have featured in the series so far, but their ancestors' lives haven't always been as intriguing as those of lesser celebrities who've taken part in previous runs. At least with this week's famous face – comedian and actor Billy Connolly – we're guaranteed more than our fair share of laughs, even if his family history turns out to be lacklustre. The episode starts out promisingly in the city of Billy's birth, Glasgow, where he hopes to find out more about his mother's relatives. He believes they hailed from Ireland, but records concerning his great-great-grandmother only deepen the mystery.

FRIDAY
Tom Kerridge's: Best Ever Dishes
BBC2, 9pm
New series. The double Michelin-starred chef creates new versions of some of Britain's favourite recipes, elevating everyday, ordinary food with his impressive flair. In the first episode, Tom focuses on crowd-pleasing dishes, perfect for sharing at a party, including crispy stuffed potato skins with Roquefort and pancetta, pulled beef brisket with garlic coleslaw, and barbecued mackerel. He finishes off with an indulgent chocolate tart.

Throwback to quirky era

By Bob Hickman

For quite a long time Citroën has basked in a reputation of pile them high and sell them cheap, often offered as VAT free.

We forget that years ago they used to produce some seriously quirky, interesting cars and I believe the DS5 is a throwback to that era.

The DS5 is an extremely stylish and I believe an attractive option – externally it makes a statement.

It is wide,has a very high stance and has the impression of attempting to be an SUV lookalike. It is certainly a big and bold vehicle, the amount of chrome items are a throwback to a 50s era, especially when you look at the rear twin exhaust pipes and the prominent light cluster and cooling vents.

At the front there is no mistaking this is a Citroën, DS5 makes the statement .

Citroën designers have got a little carried away in the interior, there is a bold design, a centre console actually built in to the roof, with a plethora of over-complicated switches – the number of times I opened one of the sun blinds instead of altering the depth of the brilliant heads-up speed display in the dashboard was beyond belief.

Visibility in the vehicle from a driving perspective was a little bit problematic, the high sides and the huge A pillars, and the small rear screen with the spoiler fixed mid-way did make for serious care and attention when maneuvering or reversing the vehicle. Reversing was aided by the camera fixed in to the boot lid which made life very much easier when moving in to a confined spot.

The interior of the DS5 is big and bold in keeping with its external characteristics, it is almost a twin-cockpit set up with overhead consoles and switches and all sorts of paraphernalia.

The controls are somewhat futuristic and I love the design of the quirky analogue clock that has been incorporated in to the dashboard.

It is a quiet vehicle to be cocooned in, with plenty of space in the rear for three people and adequate legroom.

Panoramic

The roof of the DS5 is a confusing feature, from outside it looks like it is painted black, but interior occupants see it is a panoramic glass roof – and driver, front passenger and rear passengers have the option of operating a sun blind to dim out the bright light, but this again necessitates one of the many quirky switches to operate.

The boot is a generous 465 litres but the sill is on the high side, making the loading, especially of heavy items, more troublesome.

The power unit in the test vehicle was a 2.0-litre 160bhp HDi turbo diesel. This has been well used and proven in both Citroën and Peugeot ranges and when allied to the six-speed gearbox should allow a 132mph top speed and 0-60 in just under 10 seconds.

The CO2 figures are not generous at 129g/km, so we will be looking not in the cheap band for road tax.

There are innumerable good points about the car; it has a distinctive executive styling both in and out, extremely high safety rating.

'The Citroën DS5 is an extremely stylish and I believe an attractive option – externally it makes a statement'

The downside, sadly, was the handling and the noise at times from the engine. There was a pronounced diesel clatter.

The handling was positive and responsive to steering input, but the vehicle was susceptible to rough roads and it transmitted it back in to the cabin all the bumps and jolts.

So a little bit more work on springing and damping to iron out these faults is, for me, a necessity.

My DS5 Sport HDi had an on-the-road price of £28,915, with extras including metallic paint at an additional price of £600, a leather pack interior at £1,690 and an enhanced hi-fi system at £550, making a total price of £31,755.

Citroëns benefit from a three-year or 60,000 miles warranty, and service intervals are scheduled at 20,000 miles.

New direction with the S-Cross

The march of the SUV, or sports utility vehicle, shows no signs of slowing down with several manufacturers announcing their first foray into this field in the past few months.

SUVs are mainly cars with the tall, chunky looks of the off-roader even if most of them aren't: buyers seem to balance appearances with two-wheel drive to save weight, fuel and costs.

It may be a surprise then that Suzuki, with its iconic Vitara and a history of almost half a century of 4x4s, has gone down a different route with its new S-Cross.

Still in car parlance a crossover (the clue's in the name), it's a family-sized hatchback with two or four-wheel drive options that's relatively economical to buy and run.

Top models have a newly developed and sophisticated four-wheel drive system to suit most conditions while remaining lively and economical – and with prices from £21,549 it costs less than some of its two-wheel drive opposition.

Its ALLGRIP system was made specifically for this car: not as many compromises as the traditional full-blown system in the Jimny, but more flexible than the ultra-lightweight rear differential developed for the smaller Swift 4x4.

Clearance

It gives the S-Cross extra capability on and off-road, where the main limiting factor is ground clearance. It certainly made light work of the forest tracks and streams encountered on a test route in the north of England, but unlike a traditional 4x4 remained economical, sharp handling and a comfortable ride on the highway.

There are two engine options, a 1.6 petrol and 1.6 diesel. The petrol version is capable of averaging almost 40mpg while the diesel's figure is a frugal 64mpg. Their 0 to 62mph sprint times are 12 and 13 seconds respectively.

Suzuki's engineers have also come up with an excellent compromise with the suspension: it's supple enough to soak up the bumps on rough tracks yet not so soft as to give you a roly-poly ride on the road. Its dimensions, without the top heavy architecture of some SUV's, helps too.

The steering is nicely weighted and positive, and from its road manners you'd never guess this was a car quite capable of roughing it.

It's as quiet and relaxing to drive as any modern hatchback, it's light but particularly stiff body aiding performance and economy while also reducing noise in the cabin.

No-one, Suzuki included, imagines you'd buy an S-Cross for serious mud-plugging: it's more for the country dweller who has rough and muddy lanes to travel, or someone who wants extra safety and security in bad weather.

The ALLGRIP control gives you a clue. The basic setting is 'auto' so the car remains in front wheel drive until they start to slip, when the rear wheels are brought into play too. It's there as a safety back-up while giving you best day to day economy. The 'snow' setting, unsurprisingly, uses four-wheel drive as the default setting while also optimises steering and accelerator inputs for maximum traction. The 'lock' mode gives you four-wheel drive for getting yourself out of mud, sand or snow.

There are 13 different S-Cross models, starting with a two-wheel drive petrol version at £14,999. There are two automatic versions, one two wheel drive and one four wheel drive, with a continuously variable transmission.

The top of the range versions are all fitted with ALLGRIP 4WD and are also the highest trim levels, which explains their price tag of up to £23,549 for the diesel flagship. The diesels also get a six-speed transmission compared to the petrol's five gears. The diesel is also the most economical, with an official average of 64.2mpg and 114g/km of CO2 emissions compared to the petrol's 51.3mpg and 135g/km.

The decision, as always, will depend on how much you have to spend and, with diesel up to 10p per litre more expensive these days, how many miles you do as to which is best for you.

While it may look smaller than some SUV rivals, the S-Cross is surprisingly roomy inside, with decent leg and headroom for five. It also has a generous cargo space, with a 430-litre boot for your luggage, which you can double by folding down the rear seats. The cabin has a solid, quality feel to it with refreshingly clear and logical controls.

The company has pitched the car just right: a spacious family transporter with an efficient four-wheel drive system for safety and flexibility without sacrificing much in the way of performance or precious fuel.

Villa are positive despite Arsenal sickener

Football

ASTON Villa are at Chelsea on Saturday and Gabby Agbonlahor is staying positive despite the loss to Arsenal.

He said: "We've had a kick in the teeth but we'll be back."

If Paul Lambert and his men were feeling queasy before this game, they were sickened by the end of it.

Against Arsenal, a sickness bug that swept Bodymoor Heath played a part in an ultimately subdued home performance at odds with the form that had taken Villa to second place in the Premier League.

Danny Welbeck put the knife in by opening his Arsenal account as the Gunners blew Villa away with an astonishing triple blast.

A brilliant first-half spell from the visitors saw Mesut Ozil open the scoring before Welbeck struck and Aly Cissokho's own goal made it 3-0. The goals came in three minutes and 15 seconds to end Villa's promising early threat.

The hosts would have gone top with a win but despite a bright start they were carved apart in their first defeat of the season – one watched by chairman Randy Lerner, taking in his first for almost two years.

Ashley Westwood pulled out of the Villa squad will illness during the warm-up and was replaced by Carlos Sanchez, with Joe Cole added to the bench.

Ciaran Clark also replaced Nathan Baker from the 1-0 win at Liverpool to partner Philippe Senderos. Ron Vlaar failed to shrug off a calf injury which kept him out of the Anfield victory, with Jores Okore included on the bench.

And Villa took advantage of Arsenal's early indecisiveness as they made a strong start. Fabian Delph forced Wojciech Szczesny into a low save after just two minutes following the goalkeeper's poor clearance.

Welbeck fired over in response but Arsenal were given little time to settle by a vibrant Villa side. But the Gunners stunned Villa with three quickfire goals to win the game.

Chance

Clark had a chance to haul Villa back into the game on 57 minutes but was thwarted by Oxlade-Chamberlain. Villa's threat had waned and Arsenal were in cruise control as they eased to victory while the home side could only ponder convalescence.

Lescott: My debut was very special

JOLEON Lescott has declared his winning Albion debut 'extra special' as he hailed their tactical success at Tottenham.

The former Wolves star produced a man-of-the-match performance in his first competitive appearance for the Baggies in the 1-0 win at Spurs.

Albion's first victory of the season lifted them out of the relegation zone and up to fifth from bottom.

And Lescott was full of praise for the way Albion's game plan worked as James Morrison's 74th-minute header clinched their first win at White Hart Lane for 30 years.

"It was nice to play and perform like that, the way we did as a team, and then to get the win was extra special. It was a massive result," said the 32-year-old.

"I think it was a very well-organised and disciplined performance by the team. The manager worked hard and we all worked hard all week implementing what he wanted us to do on the training pitch and it all worked out."

Lescott was even close to a debut goal but his effort hit defensive partner Craig Dawson and his team-mates gave him some stick for that.

Lions rip Stour apart after injuries hit team

Leicester Lions 42 Stourbridge 17

THE writing was on the wall for Stourbridge as early as the seventh minute when Ben Hughes and Stef Shillingford limped off.

The young Leicester Lions team smelled blood and took full advantage, running the ball at an underpowered Stour who succumbed to their first and biggest reversal since the 38-8 drubbing handed to them by Darlington Mowden Park last November 30th.

Rugby

The hosts took advantage of the disruption to force flanker Drew Rudkin over from short range in the 9th minute.

But despite the early substitutions and having to play up the slope in the first half, Stour then managed to put the hosts under pressure. Firstly, number eight Chris Depper scoring from a short-range catch and drive and then forcing two yellow cards for 'red-zone' defensive offences.

Penalty

With only 13 defenders, Stour's pack had the opposition backpedalling in the scrum and referee Callum Howard awarded a penalty try as they transgressed again. That left Stour a 7-12 lead but that was to be their high watermark in this game.

Flanker Eji Uzoigwe took a knock and was replaced by Drew Harper as Lions' centre Jon Williams added a penalty kick to his earlier successful conversion, his second successful penalty shortly after establishing a 13-12 halftime lead for the hosts that looked a not-insurmountable hurdle for Stour with slope advantage to come in the second half.

With the Stour attack camped out in the hosts 22 but failing to penetrate the defences, front-row subs Adan Sturdy and Jordan Page were introduced 10 minutes into the second half to add fresh impetus.

But the siege was lifted as the hosts turned over a ruck on their own line, wing Devon Constant broke free and ran the length of the pitch before feeding number eight Rob Young for their second try.

The hosts' tails were up and Page was yellow carded for an off-side offence. As Williams slotted the penalty to move the score on to 23-12 Dale Garner had to come back on and Depper answered the call to cover inside centre. Lions took full advantage of the extra man.

A late rally by Stour saw winger Jamie Hearn score a try wide out, but the damage had been done.

The match on Saturday is an away trip to Huddersfield. There is rugby on Saturday at Stourton Park when the Lions take on Old Saltleians, kick off 3pm.

Tank powers on with sixth stoppage win

Dudley's Ryan Partridge wins on his pro debut

Ryan 'Tank' Aston, from Dudley, on his way to victory

Dudley's Ryan 'Tank' Aston made another statement by scoring his sixth stoppage from 13 wins as a professional boxer, dropping Polish visitor Mariusz Biskupski to the floor twice at the Venue in Dudley at the weekend.

The first punch of the first round felled the veteran, who protested a slip to Wolverhampton's Gareth Morris after going to ground, under the pressure of a body shot. Aston settled quickly and didn't rush his work even when Biskupski came forward.

He took his best shots before knocking all of the air out of him one minute and eight seconds into the fourth round of a scheduled sixth.

Dudley debutant Ryan Partridge recorded a great result on his paid bow, making first opponent Ben Robinson quit on his stool just two rounds into their light middleweight contest. Robinson retired, claiming a hand injury after being dropped twice in the previous session.

A right hookdumped put him back down but, again, he survived to the end of the round, although he refused to come out for the third.

Coseley's Ryan Corrigan made it four wins from five paid contests with a comfortable win over Sheffield's Ryan Hanson, stepping in at late notice to go four rounds.

Olsson is still 'a key man' at Baggies

DELIGHTED Alan Irvine insists Jonas Olsson remains a key player for Albion after dropping the Swede for his first win as Baggies boss.

Irvine preferred summer signing Joleon Lescott for the 1-0 win at Tottenham with Olsson left at home after mistakes in the defeats to Swansea and Everton cost his side early goals.

Lescott responded with a commanding Baggies debut as James Morrison's goal gave Albion a first Premier League win of the season to ease the pressure on Irvine.

But the Scot insisted Olsson still has a major role to play.

"Jonas wasn't injured," said Irvine. "I spoke to him on Saturday and told him what my intentions were.

"That wasn't easy because I have a lot of respect for Jonas. He's a top professional and a very good player.

"But he knows that he made a couple of uncharacteristic mistakes in the last couple of games that have been costly.

"For the first time I've had a full range of options available this week and that makes your life more difficult in some ways because I had some big decisions to make."

Darts Slam back at the Civic again

WOLVERHAMPTON will host the Grand Slam of Darts for the ninth straight year in 2015.

Wolverhampton Civic Hall will stage the tournament from November 7-15.

And the event will carry world ranking points for the first time in its history, giving players an extra incentive to do well with performances counting towards the PDC Order or Merit.

This year's Grand Slam of Darts, with a total prize fund of £450,000, will start at the Civic on November 8 with defending champion Phil 'The Power' Taylor looking to win the title for the sixth time in eight years.

Taylor won last year, beating Scotland's Robert Thornton 16-6 in the final.

Runners in top 20 at big event

DUDLEY and Stourbridge Harriers AC senior men finished an excellent 17th in the Midland 6 stage Road Relays at Sutton Park as over 80 teams competed.

Lee Slater on first leg gave the club a great start as he came home seventh in a time of 18min 18sec. Veteran M50 runner Paul Waby, using the race as a warm up for next week's Notts marathon, ran 20.12 as the club dropped to 14th.

Dave Ratcliffe had a good run with 20.46 for 17th as Dave Nation brought DASH up one place to 16th with 20.09. Scott Palmer ran the fifth leg in 21.40 as the club went back to 17th. Last-leg runner Robert Meredith with a solid time of 20.54 brought the team home.

Chances missed in latest Yeltz loss

HALESOWEN slumped to their fourth Northern Premier League defeat in six games despite having a number of chances to gain at least a point.

They started brightly, Iyseden Christie getting the ball in the net early on, but it was disallowed for a foul on goalkeeper Josh Cook.

Chris Lait went close on 15 minutes as he cut into the penalty area and forced a save out of Cook.

Ashton United gradually got into the game and had a goal disallowed when Martin Pilkington got a touch to a low cross but the referee ruled he had handled.

Robert Thompson-Brown had two good chances for the Yeltz in quick succession before the break, and they also started the second half well, Christie's attempted header flying wide of the right-hand post and Tom Tonks blasting the ball over the bar a minute later.

Kayde Coppin came on as a substitute for Ashton and caused havoc, giving them the lead on 59 minutes from a tight angle.

Pilkington nearly doubled United's lead just a minute later, but his chip shot hit the wrong side of the post and went out.

Halesowen's final chance came in the dying seconds of the game, as Ben Haseley's header skimmed a post.

DK optimism did not last

Following a more encouraging performance against Scunthorpe, Dudley Kingswinford travelled to South Leicester with a degree of optimism.

However, during the second 40 minutes this optimism turned to despondency when errors started to creep into the DK performance and their cause was not helped with two yellow cards to go with one received in the first half.

Both sides started the game by trying to play open rugby with DK making an encouraging start.

But DK made too many mistakes against a team with a big, powerful set of forwards.

The home side took total advantage and ran in a further three tries.

DK replied with a consolation penalty by Kieran Pinches. Final score, South Leicester 37 DK 6.

Penalty king Ikeme is 'Premier League class'

Football

WOLVES match-winner Carl Ikeme is Premier League class according to team-mates after his superb performance against Bolton.

Ikeme saved Owen Garvan's 58th-minute penalty and also thwarted Joe Mason and Liam Feeney as Bolton tried to hit back in Saturday's 1-0 win.

The 28-year-old shot-stopper kept his fourth clean sheet in eight games with Wolves boasting the best defensive record in the Championship, after just three goals conceded this season.

Right-back Matt Doherty said: "Ikeme was the hero for us again like he's been a number of times.

"He's one of the best goalkeepers I've seen, he's definitely top Premier League standard and we're lucky to have him.

"He's so good, we don't even realise."

Goalscorer Nouha Dicko added: "It's thanks to our goalkeeper Carl Ikeme – he had a really good game and all the credit has to go to him.

"He's really good and he's been that way for a couple of seasons now. Last season he was in really good form and I think maybe he should have won player of the year.

"He showed again what an important player he is at the weekend.

"He's proving one of the best keepers in the Championship and he's proving it every week by making great saves."

Both Dicko's goals this season have been headers and the pint-sized striker wants to prove he can be an aerial threat.

"It's the kind of goal I really like because people don't expect me to score with my head as I'm short," he said. "I know what people think but I like to prove people wrong! I've shown it twice this season by scoring with my head and I'm not scared of any defender.

Fitness

"I had to go and win that ball for myself and the team. Hopefully there will be more to come with my head."

Dicko went off at half-time with a tight hamstring but is hoping to be fit for the televised Sunday lunchtime trip to Reading. "It's nothing too serious but the physios didn't want to take any risk," he said. "But I think I'll be OK for Sunday."

GLASSBOYS TO HIT THE FA CUP TRAIL

STOURBRIDGE hit the FA Cup trail again on Saturday.

They will play away at East Midlands Counties League side Blaby and Whetstone Athletic in the second qualifying round of the FA Cup.

The Leicestershire-based side have previously made home advantage tell by beating two higher level clubs.

The lower-league outfit put out Southern Leaguers Stratford Town in the Preliminary Round, beating them 1-0, and they followed that up by beating Tipton Town of the Midland Football League Premier Division 4-1.

At the weekend, Stourbridge were unlucky not to grab a point from a close Northern Premier League game against Curzon Ashton which was settled by a first-half goal.

The Glassboys created more chances than the visitors but frustratingly found it very hard to break them down in the final third of the field.

Saved

They started the brighter and Reece Hales went close as early as the seventh minute with a good turn and shot before Curzon captain Samuel Walker produced a shot which was saved by Dean Coleman.

Then he went on to chip a free-kick over the bar.

The goal came in the 28th minute when Curzon goalkeeper Hakan Burton punted the ball downfield.

The Stourbridge defence appeared to stop, thinking there was a foul, but play continued and Luke Horrocks squared the ball for Niall Cummings to score.

Stourbridge worked hard to try and get back in the game, Jordan Fitzatrick testing Burton with a shot two minutes before the break after Ben Billingham supplied him.

Football

After the re-start, a curling free-kick by Louis Harris was tipped around the post by Burton and substitute Matt Wood went sliding in on 77 minutes from a tight angle but the ball just went wide.

With two minutes remaining, Hales put the ball in for Josh Craddock to turn and hit the underside of the bar with a fierce shot, putting the rebound over.

Curzon Ashton are now second in the league and Stourbridge are sixth.

Stourbridge: Coleman, Benbow (Smikle 44), Knight, Ramsey Dickson, Hales, Harris, Haynes, Richards, Brown (Wood 72), Billingham, Fitzpatrick (Craddock 67). Subs not used: Canavan, Francis.

● A good number of Stourbridge supporters are expected to travel over to Leicestershire for the FA Cup tie. In view of this, the club is willing to run a supporters coach to this match, leaving the ground at 11.15am..

England squad call-up for Charlotte, aged 12

Charlotte Bardsley has been selected in the development group of Table Tennis England's 28-strong England Youth Squad. The 12-year-old Stourbridge youngster, who attends Heathfield School in Wolverley, is in the 15-player development section of the squad, which was announced after skill and fitness assessments of all the players who applied to join the squad at an assessment day at the National Sports Centre in Lilleshall. The squad members will attend regular training camps and will work more closely with England coaches at their clubs.

Dicko is expected to be fit

KENNY Jackett is stressing there is no panic over Nouha Dicko, despite the striker picking up a hamstring injury.

Dicko scored the only goal in Saturday's 1-0 win against Bolton – which moved them up to third in the Championship– but limped off at half-time to be replaced by Leon Clarke.

Wolves haven't been able to finalise a deal for Southampton's pacy forward Emmanuel Mayuka while news that ex-Molineux hitman Steven Fletcher is out of favour at Sunderland will not have gone unnoticed.

But publicly, the head coach is only looking at his current squad and is confident Dicko will be fit for the televised Sunday lunchtime trip to Reading.

"He had a very tight hamstring but we don't think it's pulled," said Jackett.

"All being well he'll be OK for Reading. "

Regarding the signing of a loan striker, Jackett said: "If we can improve our squad we always would but it doesn't suddenly make it more urgent. But we now play Sunday, Wednesday and Saturday and that's a key period for the squad."

Jacobs and Rowe can't stop defeat

FIRST-TEAMERS Michael Jacobs and Tommy Rowe couldn't prevent Wolves Under-21s suffering their third defeat in four games at Molineux on Monday.

Both got 90 minutes against Middlesbrough. Rowe levelled for Wolves with a stylish finish in the 54th minute but Boro won it a minute from the end.
